'GIVE UP,' U. S. ADVISER TELLS ARABS

Fast Action Pledged on School Program

Bond Sale Next on Shedule

Board to Meet In Few Days

The second phase of the Mansfield school building program will move into high gear this week.

H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, said the board would meet to authorize the clerk to advertise for bids on the purchase of $2,250,000 worth of bonds as soon as the election board certifies that the issue passed in Tuesday's election.

"We're going to get going as soon as possible on the building program," Arlin said.

He did not indicate which jobs would be given priority, indicating that the board has not decided which work should be started first.

He added, however, that it wasn't going to be a piecemeal affair, and that as many projects as possible would get underway at the earliest possible moment.

The $2,250,000 to be obtained from the sale of the bonds, plus the $500,000 remaining from the $2,111,000 bond issue floated in 1945 will be used to:

Add 18 new rooms at the Bowman school in addition to improving the fireproof west addition at an estimated cost of $490,500.

Construct a new building for pupils presently using the Brinkerhof and Carpenter schools at an estimated cost of $350,500.

NEW MAPLE LAKE UNIT

Construct a new 13-room school building at a cost of $350,000 for the fast-growing Maple lake area. This will serve to relieve overcrowding at the Rebecca Grubaugh school which, despite the $201,000 addition, is crowded.

Add 11 rooms to the six present classrooms at the Hedges school, at a cost of $308,600.

Build a new 13-room structure to relieve overcrowding in the Prospect school, at a cost of $350,000.

Build a seven-room addition to the Woodland school at a cost of $194,000.

Complete recreation fields at the junior high schools at a cost of $25,000.

Build a new physical education plant at Senior high school at a cost of $250,000 to include reasonably adequate seating for indoor athletics.

LIBRARY GETS FUNDS

Help the library meet growing demands by giving $50,000 from the new issue in addition to $80,000 from the old one.

In addition $75,000 will have to be spent for new building sites, $90,000 for furniture and equipment and $140,000 for architects' fees.

With the money obtained from the 1945 bond issue, the following has been accomplished:

A $202,021 addition to the Rebecca Grubaugh school has been built. At present, it is 99 per cent complete and is already in use.

The new Roseland school is nearly finished, but a shortage of certain materials is preventing it from being put into use. It may be opened this year, if the materials arrive.

The 14-room Newman school and the 17-room West Fifth street schools are in the basement stage of construction and will not be finished, at the earliest, before next summer.

Parents Chain Child to Bed

MOBILE, Ala. —(AP)— A husky air force veteran has appealed for advice on how to control the six-year old daughter he is charged with chaining to a bed.

Clyde W. Conway jr., her father, and his wife were charged with assault and battery by city officers who said they found little Martha (Dolly) Conway padlocked to a bed at their home.

"Padlocking her was the end of our line with Dolly," Conway told reporters and officers. "We've tried whipping Dolly, scolding her, being indifferent toward her, and every other method in every child psychology book on the market. Nothing worked."

Score Of Jobs At Stake

More than 20 county jobs are at stake when the Democrats assume control of the county government in January.

Democrats will be in control of the board of county commissioners and will replace Republicans in the prosecutor's office. E. P. Long, a Democrat, will become sheriff, succeeding Frank E. Robinson, also a Democrat.

Although Long and Robinson are of the same party, Long is expected to make some staff changes. The office employs seven deputies. Long said yesterday he has given little thought to his appointments.

The board of commissioners, which the Democrats will control two members to one, has a number of county jobs under its control.

OPEN TO CHANGE

Some of them are under civil service, but such posts as the commissioners' clerk, dog warden, courthouse custodians and relief department employes are frequently used as "plums" to pay off campaign obligations.

Positions at the County Home are under civil service, as are those at the Children's Home. These latter jobs are under the Child Welfare board.

Another change will occur in the prosecutor's office, won by a former prosecutor, Harold Lutz, Democrat. Presently, there are two assistant prosecutors and a stenographer employed there.

Greek Heads Will Resign

ATHENS —(AP)— Prime Minister Themistokles Sophoulis said last night his coalition Greek government will resign Monday.

The cabinet crisis, he said, was provoked by Sophocles Venizelos, deputy leader of the Liberal party. Sophoulis heads the party.

Venizelos has accused the cabinet of playing politics instead of concentrating on suppressing the communist rebellion of guerrilla leader Markos Vafiades. The Liberal party spokesman says the present government "is not efficient and ministers have been playing party politics."

Sophoulis said last week-end he would quit but postponed his action to await the return from Paris of Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris. Now he has sent a message to Tsaldaris asking him to return to Athens, today if possible.

Tsaldaris is the leader of the Populist party. The Liberal and Populist parties make up the current coalition government which has excluded opposition groups and ruled Greece since Sept. 6, 1947.

'Not Guilty,' Says Youth

NEW YORK — (AP)—Ralph Edward Barrows, 19-year-old athlete, pleaded innocent today to charges that he slew a barroom acquaintance, a Canadian businessman, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Handcuffed and flanked by detectives, the six foot football player, a resident of Grand Rapids, Mich., stood calm and composed as he was arraigned on a homicide charge.

Magistrate Arthur Markewich assigned him an attorney after the youth said he was without funds to obtain a lawyer's services. He was held without bail for a hearing Nov. 24.

Barrows was arrested last night in a midtown Manhattan tavern, about 10 hours after Colin Cameron MacKellar, 56-year-old textile company official, was found beaten to death in his two-room, 19th floor suite at the Waldorf.

RAPIST KILLS VICTIM

TOLEDO—(AP)—Mrs. Patricia Ardley, 52, was found dead yesterday afternoon in her apartment and Detective Captain Ralph D. Murphy said it "definitely is a case of rape and murder."

SWARM OF RUNNERS—The 100-odd contestants in yesterday's Ohio cross country championships are still bunched as they head for the first turn over the two-mile Mansfield Coolridge course. Cleveland West Tech replaced Akron North as team champion. The latter crew of harriers finished far down in 12th place. Mansfield ran seventh. See sports page for full details. (N-J photo).

Exit Hinted By Forrestal

Might Leave Truman Cabinet

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Defense Secretary James Forrestal's own words Saturday indicated that he may leave the cabinet.

Forrestal, who has been in government service for eight years and who has headed the defense establishment since September, 1947, was asked by photographers at the White House to pose with Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan. A photographer, referring to the new term for the Truman administration, said "We are starting another four years."

"But not for me," Forrestal interjected, laughing.

Reporters at the Pentagon, who sought a further explanation of the comment, were told by one of Forrestel's aides that he meant:

"He did not intend to remain in government service for another four years. There was no other inference to be drawn from his remark."

There was no intimation of when the defense secretary expected to leave his post.

When Navy Secretary Frank Knox died in 1944, Forrestal was advanced to his post.

Forrestal's appointment to head the national military establishment was credited, in part, to a compromise in the prolonged battle between the Navy on one hand and the Air Force and Army on the other over the service unification proposal. His selection by President Truman was viewed as a concession made to supporters of the Navy in the congressional fight over the unification bill.

Deny Red Charges

SEOUL—(AP)—U. S. army headquarters last night denied Russian reports of American troops fighting in South Korea.

The only part American troops played was to accept the surrender of South Korean soldiers who handed over their weapons after the disturbance, the army said.

Township Loses Bid for Garage

Single Vote Cost Bond Issue Success

A shift of one vote from the "against" column to the "for" column would have passed the $17,000 bond issue proposal for a Washington township highway garage.

The official count on that issue, completed yesterday afternoon, shows that 387 ballots were cast for the issue and 209 against. As a result, the vote for the bond issue was 64.93 per cent of the vote cast. That's .07 of one per cent short of the 65 per cent needed for passing.

Thomas R. Zeigler, clerk of the board of elections yesterday afternoon released the official count on most bond issues and on candidates for county offices.

Zeegler said the official count is continuing on the Mansfield sewer bond issue, which failed according to the unofficial tally, and on the presidential, state, and congressional races.

According to the official count Clifford L. Mitchell won election as county representative to the state assembly by a vote of 15,264 to 15,024 for his opponent, Neil S. Robinson. The unofficial tally was Mitchell, 15,257, and Robinson, 15,018.

RPF Favored In Election

PARIS—(AP) — Political sources expect big De Gaullist gains and communist losses today in the French election for the upper house of parliament.

The vote will mark the completion of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's first electoral bid for a comeback to share in the national government. He is not a candidate but has said he will exploit any strength he wins to hasten his return to power.

This is the first legislative contest in which De Gaulle has entered candidates of his new movement called the Rally of the French People (RPF).

The French will choose 269 members of the council, which has no real legislative powers. It is an advisory house to the powerful national assembly — the lower house of parliament.

Budgets Cut By President

'Hard Boiled' Policy Adopted

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman yesterday approved generally lower budgets for 16 departments and agencies and his budget director announced:

"We have adopted a hard boiled budget policy."

Budget Director James E. Webb did not name the 16 departments and agencies whose estimates for expenditures in the coming fiscal year were approved.

He told reporters after a conference with the President, however, that they did not include the military services, and constituted only about one-tenth of the entire contemplated budget outlay.

He said the figures approved today, for the fiscal year which starts next July 1, are "somewhat lower than the current year's budget.

"There may be a few cases where they are higher, but generally speaking they will be lower," he said, adding that the budget will be made as "tight as possible in order to get as nearly as possible to a balance."

However, we would not estimate the total of the new budget, or whether there will be a deficit at the end of the present fiscal year.

This year's budget is $42,200,000,000. Last August Mr. Truman estimated there would be a $1,500,000,000 deficit next June 30, because of the Republican tax cut and other factors.

"The President's policies will be to hold down expenditures to the lowest possible level which will meet the needs of the country," Webb said. "When we do that, the question of whether we have a surplus or deficit depends on revenue."

REBELS EXPELLED

ASUNCION, Paraguay —(AP) —Six members of the Paraguayan legislature were expelled Saturday for taking part in the recent short-lived revolt against President Natalicio Gonzalez's government.

Unwittingly Sees Wife's Tragic Death

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Joseph D. McCauley, 82, a retired government employee, went for a walk while his wife was out doing her Saturday shopping.

When he came back he told neighbors in his apartment that he had seen a terrible accident in which a woman had been pinned under a streetcar.

Later after the victim's body had been taken to the morgue and identity established, McCauley was told by friends—

The victim was Mrs. McCauley.

Searchers Hear Weak Radio SOS

Believed From Missing Plane

SEATTLE —(AP)— A radio distress signal was reported heard Saturday by one of the search planes hunting for three aircraft missing on the North Pacific rim with 38 persons aboard.

The weak signal was heard coming from the northern part of Vancouver Island. It was in that general area a long-range Navy Neptune bomber with nine aboard vanished Thursday. Weather conditions prevented an aerial search of the island.

Whidbey Island naval air station, base of the plane, said the signal was also too weak to permit an accurate bearing for ground searchers. The same signal had been heard the previous day.

Weather also hampered the search for the two other missing planes. They were a Pacific Alaska air express airliner missing since Thursday in the Sitka-Ketchikan area of Alaska with 17 aboard and a Navy Privateer patrol bomber, with crew of 12, missing out of Kodiak on an Aleutians flight.

Navy officials said they had no assurance the distress signal came from their plane. They said the signal might have come from another source or might not be authentic.

However, they plan to send search ships over northern Vancouver Island as soon as the weather lifts. The signal was heard Saturday, by a plane which was following along the weather front trying to get into the island area.

Chick Raiser Crows Over Hen's Feat

SHELBY—Hal Culbertson, Marvin avenue, has two triple-yolk eggs weighing three and one quarter ounces apiece and he doesn't know who the mother is.

Last Easter Culbertson who does not raise chickens commercially, bought two chicks for his children and then started adding to the flock.

So far he has collected 15, including black and white Giants, Anacondas, Wyandots, New Hampshire Reds, two Brahmas and several Leghorns.

He found the first extra large egg on Friday and the second on Saturday, but he doesn't know which hen laid the egg.

He has been able to narrow the field down a bit, however. He has counted out the two roosters as possible mothers.

Disappears After Shooting Husband

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Police found the bullet-pierced body of John Pappas, 55, restaurant operator, in his home tonight after the man's wife had burst into the home of relatives saying: "I shot him," Police Capt. George Ertel reported.

The wife, Mrs. Mary Pappas, 50, rushed out after telling her sister, Mrs. Harriet Kallas, of the shooting, Ertel said, and no trace could be found of her immediately.

Position Declared Hopeless

General Riley Advises Peace

PARIS —(AP)— A united nations source said last night four Arab governments have been advised their military position in Palestine is "hopeless" and that they had better make peace.

This authoritative informant, who insisted upon anonymity, said Brig. Gen. William E. Riley, a United Nations Marine Corps general and chief of staff of the United Nations truce mission in Palestine, "minced no words," in a three-hour conference with Syrian, Egyptian, Lebanese and Iraq representatives.

The meeting, which took place on the initiative of Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting U. N. mediator, was attended by Bunche and his deputy, Henri Vigier, the informant said.

The source said, "Riley made it clear that in the opinion of the people who have to try to work it the truce now is a dead duck."

The conference coincided with reports published in Cairo, but denied by Trans-Jordan officials there, that King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan already is suggesting a separate peace between his country and Israel.

Riley was reported to have told the Arabs that as a military man he believes time has come for the Palestine truce of last July to be replaced by some more suitable basis for peace. The Jews, he pointed out, are in complete military control of Palestine.

CHARGE LOOTING

The mediator in a report to the Security Council today said Israel's troops now occupy 15 villages inside Lebanon and charged they engaged in "extensive and systematic looting."

The report charged that Israeli and Arab forces were guilty of a "grave and inexcusable violation of the truce" in that fighting which raged several days along a wide front.

The U. N. informant, who was inside the conference room, said the Arab representatives—Adel Arslan of Syria, Fuad Amoun of Lebanon, Mahmoud Fawzi of Egypt, and an agent of Iraq—asked many questions of Riley and examined the maps he produced.

But they committed their governments in no way.

Meanwhile, the weekly newspaper Akhbar El Yom in Cairo reported that King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan had sent a message to a "high Arab personality" suggesting a peace settlement between Trans-Jordan and Israel.

The Trans-Jordan delegation to the Arab League council in Cairo denied Abdullah was seeking a separate peace.

Child Kills Playmate, 13

CHICAGO — (AP) — A juvenile court judge said last night a 15-year-old boy admitted strangling William Gervais, 13.

Judge Robert Dunne said Raphael "Rocky" Villasenor, a playmate of the dead boy, made an oral statement that he choked William to death with a belt.

The Gervais boy's body was found Friday in a manhole near Fuller Park on the south side.

Rocky, held without charge, had been questioned by police since last night. Other companions of the two youths told police they left Rocky alone in the park with William Thursday night.

Street Workers Ready for Big Clean-Up

City Maps Week-Long 'Battle of Leaves'

By DOUG CHEVALIER

Beginning tomorrow, Mansfield's street department will go all out in an effort to win the 1948 "battle of the leaves", City Street Supt. E. W. Davis said yesterday.

"The entire street department will collect leaves next week, and we expect to have them all off the streets by the end of the week", Davis said. "All other work will cease until the job is finished."

Davis pointed out that the department's efforts are being concentrated on the gathering of leaves because about all the leaves are down. The recent wet weather has made the leaves slippery and soggy. Leaves in such condition create hazardous driving conditions on the city streets.

The drive to conquer the leaves this week will necessitate blocking off some streets while the work is in progress, Davis said. He urged Mansfielders to cooperate with the street department by having all their leaves raked up by the time the crews come to their neighborhoods.

"We will cover the whole city for the last time," he said, "There will be no back-tracking this time."

For more than three weeks the street department has coped with the fast-falling leaves by using six trucks and 18 men to gather them. When the job started Davis pointed out the inadequacy of the system and declared that a machine for gathering leaves was the best solution for a city the size of Mansfield.

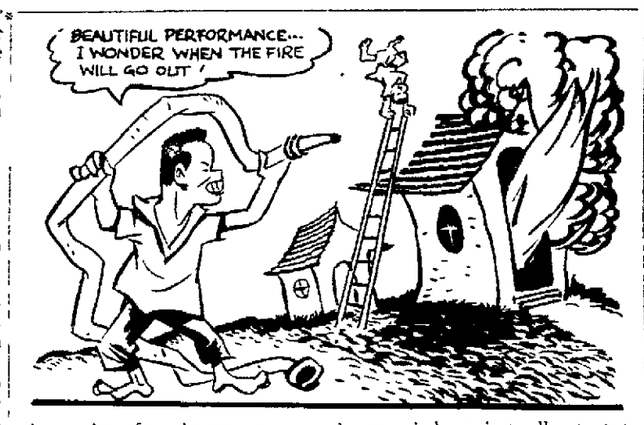
'Revolutionary' Concept In Japan—

Fire Fighters To Fight Fires!



TOKYO—(AP)— Japan's big city firemen, long renowned for their acrobatics and elegant tattoos, are going to learn to fight fires.

This may seem revolutionary, but these are changing times in Japan—even for firemen

In the good old days, the fireman was noted for the agility with which he performed stunts atop his bamboo ladder at holiday celebrations.

This also gave him a chance to bare his breast and the tattoos which adorned it These were something to make a Japanese wonder, even in a land where tattoos are as common as suntan in Florida.

When the time came for him to go to work, however, the Japanese fireman often gave a much less satisfactory performance — at least from the standpoint of a Japanese whose house was on fire.

LET HOUSE BURN

The accepted technique was to play water on all the surrounding houses and let the place burn down. It probably was pretty far gone by the time the fire department showed up anyway.

There was a slight variation of this technique which, while more satisfactory to the spectators, was even less appreciated by the victim of the fire and his neighbors

This was to dynamite the buildings at the corner of a block and let everything in between go ahead and burn This was used when the fire department was later than usual and the flames had spread

Each ward had its own fire department. A fire wagon would gallop up to a ward line but refuse to cross it, even if the blaze was a few feet away. There was a lot of rivalry among the companies in those days.

George W Angell who is chief fire administrator of the public safety division at General MacArthur's headquarters drew up a system putting all big city fire-fighting on the American plan

Now they are overhauling the fire depratments of Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe, Kyoto,, Nagoya, and Yokohama, shaking 'em all up, even down to locating fire alarm boxes so someone can find them.

Fire stations are being moved out of blind alleys They are setting up a system of district and battalion chiefs who can co-ordinate the job of fighting big fires

Soon the old glamor will be gone And all that Japanese firefighters will do is fight fires

Curious Scientists Direct Efforts to Study 'Trivia'

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Does a moth chewing your best suit sound like a person munching corn flakes? (Answer Yes)

How far can a flea jump? (Answer Some farther than others)

Are thin-skulled men more likely to get bald than thick-skulled ones? (Answer Well, maybe)

Sure, you know all about uranium mesons neutrons and all that atomic stuff—but how well informed are you on some of the other frontiers of science?

A lot of big men are doing a lot of little things that next week or 20 years from now may add years to your life, or make earning a living easier. (Oh they may produce a military weapon more deadly than the atom bomb.)

English scientists want to know whether climate and some other things have anything to do with baldness in men

They decided a study of the upper lips of women—where fuzz sometimes grows—might produce some important facts about the ability of people to grow hair They're giving the upper lips of women in Great Britain, Sweden and some other countries the once-over

Preliminary findings seem to indicate there may be a relationship between baldness and the thickness of the skull, that the thicker the skull the more hair

Army scientists are curious about how the mosquito found GIs concealed in foxholes in the deepest jungles of the South Pacific They've decided the odor of perspiration may attract mosquitoes, but they're testing other scents too

MOTH CHEWS NOISILY

A Cornell university scientist wanted to know what sort of a sound a moth makes while chewing fabrics He sewed a moth larva in a cloth sack The larva had to chew his way out As he did so, the scientist made a phonograph record of it

The noise was indeed like a man eating corn flakes

Scientists hunting vitamins discovered there is twice as much vitamin C in whale's milk as cow's milk and almost as much as in mother's milk

A Baltimore scientists's curiosity about vitamins in the fire fly started a boom in the firefly market He offered 25 cents a hundred for them and says it will take thousands of them before his curiosity is satisfied He believes there is vitamin K in the firefly lighting system

Scientists are curious about how the cowbird gets another mother bird to hatch its eggs They admit the answer may be of no practical use.

Scores of scientists in many nations are working on another bird mystery Why, and how do birds migrate?

Do they have some organ possibly akin to radar, that permits them to navigate unerringly for hundreds of miles back to their nesting grounds? Why do they leave home in the first place?

One young scientist bombarded birds with radar beams to see if it would throw them off their course, but he isn't ready to announce results yet

A scientist in Scotland found that a man can make his heart beats blow smoke rings for him Now he's trying to create a device so sensitive it can analyze the smoke rings and tell the condition of the ring-blower's arteries

The rings can be blown by pursing the lips in a certain way around a mouthful of smoke If the lips are held open a fraction of an inch each heart beat blows a smoke ring

Another scientist studied thousands of bacteria before he was convinced they "wag their tails" behind them but that it doesn't help them swim Previously some people believed the tail was a swimming device

Aussies Plan Mighty Blast

Huge Bomb Dump To Be Detonated

SYDNEY—(AP)—There is going to be a very big bang up in New Guinea early next year.

The Australian army and air force are planning to set off 3,000 tons of bombs in one mighty blast It will rank with the biggest half-dozen man-made explosions of the world

These were five atom bombs and the detonation of 8,500 tons of high explosives on Heligoland, German fortress island, in April 1947.

The New Guinea bombs, left over from World War II, will go up at a dump at Tadji near the big wartime base of Aitape on the northeast coast.

Scientists from England and Australia will be there to study the effect of the blast on the earth's crust About 20 seismograph recording stations will be scattered around the Tadji explosion area Some will be quite close, others will be hundreds of miles away.

The noise of the explosion should be big enough to be heard for hundreds of miles. The electric detonator that will explode the bombs likely will be about seven miles from the center of the dump.

Geophysicists hope the study of the blast will give them more fasts about the earth's crust in this part of the world They know much more about the earth in Europe and Asia than they do

Coroner Says Child Abused

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Eleven-year-old Barbara Ann Watts, whose poison death has brought a first degree murder charge against her mother, "apparently had been the victim of perverted sexual abuse," Dr Herbert P Lyle, Hamilton county coroner, testified yesterday at the parent's trial.

Under cross-examination, Dr. Lyle said that before Mrs Mary Clay Watts was arrested last June 28 he had told her an examination of the child's body had revealed the apparent abuse

"That's impossible," Dr Lyle quoted the 43-year-old widow He added that, although he was convinced the child had been abused, nothing had been developed to show who might have been the abuser

The state charges that Mrs Watts gave her daughter mercury poisoning and sleeping tablets "so that she could obtain the child's $11 000 estate and $3,000 in insurance"

Fire Fighters Win

LOS ANGELES — (AP) Blackened crews of firefighters—aided by subsiding winds — Saturday had controlled two brush fires which burned over an estimated 15,000 acres in rain-hungry southern California But a new rise of the gusty winds could yet peril an area of some 500 beautiful homes in Orange county

Memorandum to a Boss:

Your Secretary Wants Title

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—Memorandum to a boss:

Your "right hand" at the office wants to be a licensed c. p. s. if she's one of the 10,000 (all women) members of the National Secretaries association.

C.P.S.½ That stands for certified professional secretary.

And, as a career woman, she expects three "c's" from you in return for her six "d's" according to Mrs. Margaret O. Dewyr of Buffalo, president of the association.

As a boss, you're supposed to show courtesy, consideration and confidence, Mrs. Dewyr advises.

Someone else listed the "D's" for secretaries: diligence, durability, dependability, discretion, dominance (without being domineering) and diplomacy

The NSA, six years old has doubled its membership since 1946. There are 275 chapters in 41 states. Headquarters is in Kansas City, Kas., where Mrs. Clara B. Krueger is the secretaries' executive secretary.

FAVORS LICENSING

Right now the group's major project is getting uniform national examinations for state licenses for secretaries, like those for certified public accountants.

Mrs. Dewyr says the association hopes to make definite progress toward that objective before its 1949 convention in Chicago

"Elevating the standards of the secretarial profession" is listed as the first purpose of the association The others are "promoting educational benefits" and sponsoring social and civic improvements."

The NSA publishes a magazine, "The Secretary", and the chapters have annual "boss night" dinners.

Mrs Dewyr explains the group is "non-union, non-profit, non-partisan and non-sectarian"

Her own favorite of the attributes of a good secretary is durability. 'It means being healthy and wearing well," she says.

Secretaries, in her opinion, need to be kept informed so they can run things if need be. And, she adds, they appreciate acknowledgement of "unusual favors that aren't everyday taken-for-granted services."

An experienced secretary herself, Mrs Dewyr has been an employer, too As executive secretary of an engineering society she had both a secretary and a stenographer working for her.

"A stenographer is paid to do," she maintains, "but a secretary is paid to think."

By the way, Mr. Boss, Mrs. Dewyr would rather you are called an employer She thinks both you and your secretary ought to have professional dignity.

Minnesota Unrivets Boilermakers, 34-7

By MAURICE PUTNAM

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— Minnesota's improving football team handed a crippled Purdue squad a 34 to 7 licking yesterday before a record crowd of 66,953 fans.

The Gophers concentrated most of their scoring punch in the first half, getting four touchdowns for a 27 to 7 advantage at half-time. They could punch over but one more tally, midway in the final period.

Purdue's ace halfback, Harry Szulborski, raced through right guard for 53 yards and a touchdown three minutes and three seconds after the game started. Rudy Trbovich added the point. The Boilermakers could not come close to scoring again.

TOUCHES OFF BLAST

Purdue's counter was the spark that touched off the Minnesota scoring blast. A delayed plunge sent Fullback Frank Kuzma over for the first Gopher tally. A few plays later Halfback Bud Hausken took a pass that bounced off a potential interceptor's hands and raced for another tally to put Minnesota ahead.

A lateral good for 20 yards and an eight-yard plunge by Halfback Bill Bye gave Minnesota another touchdown shortly after the second period opened.

Quarterback Jim Malosky was the workhorse for the fourth Minnesota tally. He plunged to the 25-yard line and then took a pass from Halfback Dick Lawrence to put the ball on t he eight. He scored on a pass from Halfback Ev Faunce.

It wasn't until midway in the final frame that Minnesota could score again.

Plunges by Faunce and Halfback Glenn Pullens carried the ball to the three-yard line. Halfback Jack Sturdevant added two more yards and then a quarterback sneak sent Stan Thiele over.

Purdue	7	0	0	0	—7
Minnesota	14	13	6	7	—34

Purdue scoring: touchdown, Szulborski. Point after touchdown, Trbovich (placement).

Minnesota scoring: touchdowns, Kuzma, Hausken, Bye, Malosky, Thiele; point after touchdown, Soltau 4 (placements).

Tigers Smash Harvard, 47-7

PRINCETON, N. J. — (AP) — Princeton ground Harvard into the green turf of Palmer stadium yesterday, 47-7, with the highest scoring splurge of an ancient series dating back to 1877.

Harvard scored first on an electrifying 77-yard run by Harold Moffie. Then the Tigers opened the defense of their Big Three title with a smashing attack that netted 493 yards.

Princeton smashed all existing scoring marks for its exclusive feud with Harvard. Before Saturday the top score was 41-15 for Princeton in 1889. A crowd of 37,000 saw the rout.

Stock Mart Regaining Strength

Week Termed Worst In Year

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market struggled to its feet Saturday after absorbing during the week one of the worst beatings in years.

Final prices in most cases were up a few cents to more than $1 a share although below the best gains scored during the day.

The market made its best showing soon after the opening bell. A sudden rush to buy, which turned out to be short-lived, was enough to put the ticker behind.

Buying interest soon subsided and prices tended to drift downward.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .3 of one point to 66. Of the 914 issues which changed hands 425 advanced and 281 declined.

Turnover amounted to 880,000 shares, the largest for any weekend session since mid-May's bull market. It compared with 310,000 a week ago.

Saturday's rally was the second attempt this week to pull out of the post-election nosedive. Wide gains were scored during the other advance on Thursday but real buying power has not yet returned to the market.

Selling has been based largely on the theory the incoming administration will adopt policies which will unfavorably affect present high business profits.

Grain Market Fails to Hold Past 3 Day Continued High

CHICAGO — (AP) — The grain market was not very successful Saturday in trying to extend its post-election advance into the fourth straight session. All cereals opened up strong, July and September wheat hitting new seasonal highs, but prices slumped toward the close.

Corn showed the easiest undertone in the closing minutes. In part this was based on a lower trend in the cash market. Commercial interests were said to have bought nearly all the high moisture corn they want for drying purposes at this time.

Week-end evening up operations and profit-taking following advancing prices had some influence in sending prices lower shortly before the close.

Wheat ended ¼-⅝ higher, December $2.30⅞-$2.31. Corn was ⅝ lower to ¾ higher, December $1.40¾-⅞, oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, December 79¼-⅜. Rye was 1¾ to 2 cents lower, December $1.80½. Soybeans were lower to 1 cent higher, November $2.55-$2.55¼, and lard was 27 to 47 ceints a hundred pounds lower, November $18.75.

Economy of Soviet Zone at Standstill, Declares Clay

Retaliation To Blockade Being Felt

Supplies Low In Eastern Zone

BERLIN—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said last night that information reaching Berlin showed the economy of the Soviet zone is "virtually at a standstill."

This deterioration had come about, the American commander in Germnay said, because of the western counter blockade and the general food shortage in the Soviet zone.

"Our information is that they need the hard coal, steel and spare parts which used to come from western Germany," he told a group of correspondents covering the U.N. assembly in Paris.

The counter blockade was imposed by the western powers July 26—a little more than a month after the Russians launched their blockade of Berlin.

Welcoming the U.N. correspondents who came here for a weekend visit, Clay said he was confident the American-British airlift would be able to supply the western sectors of Berlin despite bad weather.

"Even in the worst weather we are able to bring in 60 per cent of the supplies we bring in in good weather," he said.

90,000 UNEMPLOYED

The general explained that because of the Soviet blockade there are about 90,000 unemployed in the western sectors of Berlin. A substantial number of others are not employed more than 20 hours weekly because of the shortage of coal and raw materials.

German Social Democrats demanded Saturday that the Russians speed up repatriation of German prisoners of war or give an accounting of what happened to them.

They reminded the Russians that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had pledged himself at the Moscow Foreign Ministers conference in March, 1947 to release all the remaining prisoners in Soviet custody by the end of 1948.

The official Soviet newspaper in Berlin announced that 18,260 prisoners were returned last month. However, the anti-Communist press said this rate was not nearly enough to asure the repatriation by the end of this year of nearly 900,000 prisoners Molotov acknowledged the Russians still held in 1947.

Either the Russians never told the truth about the number of German prisoners they captured or they never told the number who died in slave labor in captivity," the newspaper Social Democrat said.

Veteran Cop Says Robbery 'Fantastic'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Police at first were inclined to doubt Mrs. Marie Martin's story of a fat and toothless blonde robbing her of $6,000 and three diamond rings worth $2,500.

Mrs. Martin, a sweet faced woman of 56, said it happened in a busy downtown section Friday noon when a lot of people were around.

"Most fantastic robbery I have ever encountered!" Detective Sgt. Jay S. Teele exclaimed. He is a veteran of more than 20 years police service.

Police investigation Saturday uncovered only facts confirming the story.

Mrs. Martin told detectives the plump blonde with front teeth missing—a stranger to her—took her rings and forced her to withdraw $6,000 from the City National Bank. Police said the bank teller verified the $6,000 withdrawal and also that Mrs. Martin was accompanied by another woman.

The Lexington six-mill school levy passed 727 to 157. The unofficial count was 721 to 129.

Convict Wins Own Release

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Cecil Wright, who learned enough about law in prison to get out, was freed from Alcatraz yesterday on a writ he obtained himself.

As he stepped ashore from the government boat that brought him from Alcatraz island in San Francisco bay, he was asked what impressed him most about the seven years there.

"Getting out," he replied crisply. It was the second time he had left Alcatraz.

CAUSE OF SLAYING—The father of Betty Antico (above), 5, was held at Sharpsburg, Pa., (Nov. 5) in the slaying of William Moore, 75-year-old rag man, after Moore was jailed on a charge of molesting the girl. Police Sgt. Robert Antelli said Antico shot Moore after bursting into the jail.

He Just Can't See Can-Can

ULVERSTON, Eng.—(AP)—Fred Pilkington is a man who can't see the can-can. Matter of fact, he's on a sitdown strike against it.

He leads an orchestra for a musical comedy in which the pretty lassies of the chorus come frisking out for a number with their skirts raised high above their black stockings and do that shocking dance.

When that number comes on, Pilkington puts down his baton and sits down—refuses to direct the number. Producer Bob Bowker says it's okay with him.

'Smog' City Plans Air Laboratory

DONORA, Pa. —(AP)— This mill town where 19 people died a week ago Saturday in a smothering smog will become a laboratory in the fight against air pollution.

The borough council last night set up initial plans for the laboratory—to be financed by a $10,000 gift from the CIO United Steel Workers. CIO President Philip Murray offered the money a few days after the 19 had died and hundreds became ill during peculiar atmospheric conditions induced by a heavy fog.

Nationalist Army Claims Battle Gain

Truce Bid to Reds Hinted

NANKING — (AP) — The government claimed a modest victory in central China last night, but rumors spread through Nanking that an effort to negotiate a peace with the communists was in the wind.

A military communique said three communist columns (nominally about 45,000 men) had been defeated in southern Shantung 60 miles northeast of Suchow, the government's main central-China base.

No details were given, and the communique did not refer to the situation southeast of Suchow.

Unofficial reports said three communist columns had bypassed Suchow on the southeast and were approaching Pengpu, only 108 miles by rail northwest of this capital.

The communique also acknowledged abandonment of Yingkow, the south Manchurian escape port which the communists claimed to have seized three days previously. The government said a successful evacuation was made after inflicting 3,000 casualties on the communists.

The military news are subordinated in Nanking, however, to the flood of rumors about attempts to make peace.

None of these diverse reports got the slightest support from any responsible official.

(In any case it was questionable whether the victory-flushed communists would consider a deal.)

It nevertlieless was certain that China's future was being charted in a day and night series of conferences among Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his chief lieutenants.

Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, defender of the government's northern "island" in the communist sea, returned to his Peiping headquarters. It was reported that he had rejected Chiang's offer to entrust him with the defense of central China—and the Yangtze valley.

This job was reported being offered for the second time to Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, who refused it earlier in the week.

Among those conferring with Chiang were Premier Wong Wen-Hao, former Premier Chang Chun, Gen. Chi-Chung, commander in the northwest; O. K. Yui, governor of the Central bank; Wang Shih-Chieh, foreign minister, and Shao Li-Tze, head of the former People's Political council.

Two Women Threatened After Anti-Slot Machine Crusades

MOLINE, Ill. — (AP) — A brick crashed through a window at the home of the mother-daughter anti-slot machine crusaders today and a threatening note was found near the house.

"Momma and Marie—lay off or you die," the note said.

The brick tossing was the latest incident in the campaign of Marie Van Meulebrock, 25, and her mother, Helena, for money for building an animal shelter.

They asked contributions from tavern owners and filed complaints against the owners for operating slot machines when they failed to get funds.

It was the second incident of window-smashing in the campaign.

Censorship Ban Put on U. N. Films

Action Taken By Secretary Lie

PARIS — (AP) — Differences between the east and west resulted in a temporary censorship Saturday on the United Nations movie theater at the Palais De Chaillot.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie announced he was placing a ban for the present on the practice of showing films from member countries to U. N. audiences.

He was forced to act, Lie told the general assembly's 58-nation political committee, by a Greek allegation that Yugoslavia was trying to propagandize delegates through a film on Yugoslav camps for child refugees from the Greek guerrilla fighting.

John Foster Dulles, Republican member of the U. S. delegation, backed Greece. He told the committee a film had been made in the United States called "The Iron Curtain" and added: "I don't suppose some delegates here would like it if we showed that film."

"The Iron Curtain" is a Hollywood film based on the exposure of an atomic spy ring in Canada.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik said the Yugoslav film would have no objective value during committee discussions of the Greek question. He added, however, that the "slanderous" American film was part of the spy propaganda in the United States of a type which, he said, President Truman himself had called a "Red Herring."

Poland and Russia were voted down 19 to 8 on a motion to have the Yugoslav film shown to the political committee to demonstrate whether it was a documentary film of propaganda. Twenty-one members abstained.

The committee finally voted 33 to 0, with nine abstentions, to ask Lie to study what could be done to settle the film controversy and report his conclusions to the appropriate U. N. organ. It was believed Lie would report to the assembly 14-nation steering committee.

Shrewd Crook Starts New Parking Lot

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— An unidentified man did a thriving parking business yesterday at a filling station near the Northwestern-Wisconsin football game.

The man, unnoticed by the operator, waved eight cars onto the station's grass terrace and collected a dollar from each driver. Then he disappeared.

Police moved the automobiles to a city parking lot during the game. The car owners all said they were too concerned with the game and with finding a parking place to remember what the man looked like.

Lutz Again Gets Chance To Cast Vote

Ralph C Lutz, of Lexington, is going to cast his vote for President Truman, but he doesn't know when. Lutz is one of Ohio's 23 Democratic presidential electors.

Chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, Lutz was chosen as an elector at the state Democratic convention.

The 17th district names an elector and this year it was Richland county's turn to recommend an elector to the state Democratic convention.

Lutz said yesterday he had not yet received instructions as to when he will cast his vote. Actually, it's all "a mere formality," but results from the fact that voters ballot on presidential electors who in turn vote for president.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Community Chest Quota Reached

OF COURSE Mansfield's Community Chest campaign has again gone "over the top"—although an additional week of effort was required for this accomplishment. A vast majority of the people of Mansfield are not of the sort to permit the failure of such a humanitarian undertaking, as is evidenced by the large number of contributors to the Community Fund and the liberality of some of the gifts.

The quota of $122,635—which has now been slightly exceeded—represents the minimum of requirements for aid in maintaining the group of agencies participating in the Community Fund, and the combined campaign is very generally recognized as being much more satisfactory than that each of these agencies should conduct a separate fund-raising drive.

A vast amount of work is involved in planning and carrying through such a solicitation of contributions as has just been completed here, and an expression of appreciation should go to all of those who voluntarily shared in this work and who must be credited with successful outcome of the campaign.

Had there been any spirit of defeatism a week ago, an easy way out would have been to wind up the campaign at the end of its prescribed period—with an admission of failure—but that is not the way things are done in Mansfield. Persistent effort is frequently required to accomplish worthy undertakings here, but a retrospective look provides convincing evidence that Mansfield, in its leadership and citizenship, possesses the qualities which bring final success.

Checkup On 'Two-Party' System Due

IT NEEDED no assurance to that effect from Governor Dewey to make it quite clear that he will not be considered for the Republican presidential nomination four years from now. While he will still be of an acceptable age at that time, his record of two defeats will prove an unsurmountable barrier—especially the one of this week when Dewey cockily took his election for granted all through the campaign.

While events of the next four years cannot be foreseen—except possibly by the pollsters who so confidently predicted Dewey's election—there is appearance of strong likelihood that the almost immediate future will be marked by a series of events which will have far-reaching effects in this country, both as to international and domestic problems.

Assuming continuance of a two-party system—named, for convenience, "Democratic" and "Republican"—the outcome of Tuesday's election, with a considerable plurality favoring President Truman over Governor Dewey, and reversing the 1946 trend which gave Republicans control of both houses of Congress, carries a challenge to the GOP to reform the ranks of its leadership to conform more closely to changing thought . . . or to patiently await proof that administrative policies that have been in operation during the past sixteen years are wrong, and will eventually be so recognized by a majority of the American people.

Within the next two or three years at least a few younger Republicans may step into the limelight as possible contenders for the presidential nomination in 1952, but at the moment the only outstanding figure seems to be Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, who will then be 46 years of age.

On the Democratic side, unless President Truman decides to seek a third term, the name of Frank J. Lausche, who is again Ohio's governor-elect, is quite likely to receive frequent mention as a probable contender . . . depending, of course, on the impression he makes during his next two-year term as governor.

Considering difficulties encountered by both parties in making their selections at their Philadelphia conventions last summer, it seems none too soon to start developing some "presidential timber," if it is to be in readiness for 1952.

Now, however, it is President Truman who has been chosen to serve for another four years, and it may well be hoped that he will measure up to the requirements of the high office in which he was originally placed by Fate but to which he has now been elected by majority vote.

Gettysburg Awaits Freedom Train

THIS WILL be a big year for Gettysburg. Not only will the little Pennsylvania town celebrate on Nov. 19 the delivery of Lincoln's historic address, re-enacting it in a pageant as it has done for over 60 years, but the Freedom Train will be there for a two-day stay. A special postage stamp has been issued, the first time, it is said, that such an honor has been paid to a speech.

The magnitude of the armies engaged at Gettysburg, the stubborn three-day fighting, and the fact that this was the first major defeat suffered by the forces of Robert E. Lee have made Gettysburg a glamorous name. Had Lee won the battle, it is not certain what he might have done further. Few believe he could have captured and held Washington, Baltimore or Philadelphia. The force of numbers was against him, and probably would ultimately have prevailed.

The really decisive battles were in the West. The capture of Forts Henry and Donaldson, of New Orleans and finally of Vicksburg cut the Confederacy in two, and ensured its final downfall. Gettysburg was in the nature of a holding operation. The Confederate armies were prevented from going further while the really vital fighting was done elsewhere.

Negro Doctors Gain Recognition

IN 1945 the American College of Surgeons rejected Dr. George D. Thorne of New York City for membership because he was a Negro. He was admitted this year, but he is not the first of his race to receive this honor. Nearly 40 Negro physicians have been admitted in the last three years, showing the progress the race has made.

Ironically, the college which rejected Dr. Thorne has as one of its founders a Negro, Dr. Dan Williams of Chicago, one of the first to do heart surgery successfully.

It Will Take More Than Miracles to Feed All the World.

A Voice From the Country

Distasteful Alliances May Be Necessary

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

IN THE rapid changes in the international situation since the end of the war, the American people find themselves confronted by dilemma which is one of the most serious ever encountered in all their history. It is a dilemma created almost entirely by Soviet Russia whose dictators choose consistently to increase its acuteness. Bluntly stated, the question is to what degree we shall ally ourselves with our late enemies and in what degree we shall aid them in rebuilding their former strength. The question touches vitally upon the rehabilitation of Japan and Germany and upon the question of concessions and agreements to be made with Franco's Spain.

BROMFIELD

The dilemma need never have arisen save for the determination of Soviet Russia toward imperialist expansion, her antagonism without reserve toward her recent allies and her policy of re-establishing in Europe the old "balance of power" principle which has already cost the world so much misery.

When the United Nations Organization was set up, there was a prospect of the world working together toward peace and rehabilitation; but almost at once Soviet Russia set out to wreck the functioning and purposes of the organization at every possible point.

Within a short time it became completely apparent that Russia was interested neither in permanent world peace or even rehabilitation but sought by overrunning all possible territory to operate entirely on her own in a pattern of old-fashioned Czarist Imperialism.

Thus she overran and dominated the Balkans, the Baltic states, Poland and finally Czecho-Slovakia. She would have overrun Korea and possibly all of Manchuria and part of China but for the presence of a small American token force in Korea.

Her flagrant attempts to pillage completely what remained of ruined Germany and Austria and her efforts to force her former allies to act as her accomplices solely for her own benefit completed the picture.

In the meanwhile she has worked steadily to contrive difficulties and even dissolution within its boundaries of the nations recently allied to her by the use of agents and traitorous native-born Communist party elements.

Moreover she has opposed consistently by every means of trickery and deception the efforts of the United Nations to bring about peaceful settlement of international difficulties.

It is probable that no nation in history has ever made so contemptible a record of treachery, mistrust and aggression within so short a time.

Destructive Policy.

SUCH a consistently destructive policy can only arrive at placing all the rest of the world in a defensive position and in one of enmity, mistrust and antagonism.

This is exactly the process which is now creating a defensive if perhaps tacit alliance among all the other nations of the world—even those who so recently were our enemies—against the aggressor Russia.

This has created our dilemma and in turn is forcing a policy of co-operation and even of sympathy toward these nations which were in one way or another opposing both ourselves and our former ally Soviet Russia so short a time ago.

The time of decision is not far off and unless Soviet Russia sees fit to modify her present tactics we shall find necessity for making strange bedfellows indeed.

The policy of Russia is inevitably making it necessary for the rest of the world, including her late allies, to build up the defenses, the production, the economic and the military power of recent enemies as a protection for all concerned.

To such a course of events, opposition has arisen in this country largely from three elements—(1) those who are the outright friends of communism and Soviet Russia and the enemies of this nation; (2) those who, from unreasonable and sometimes hysterical reasons, oppose any alliance with our late enemies; and (3), those in whose hearts vengeance is deeply entrenched.

Soviet Russia has chosen to establish a record for tyranny and oppression and atrocities which is easily the equal to any of our recent enemies, whether Nazist, Fascist, Falangist or Shintoist. There can be no genuinely honest choice upon the grounds of morality, freedom, democracy or civilization.

Logically, the question resolves into a choice between two evils, one of them as detestable as the other.

The deciding element, which should help us in solving the dilemma, lies in the fact that the Soviet Russian evil is a powerful and aggressive one set upon a course of dominating and destroying the rest of the world either by bluff and actual violence or by treachery developed by her agents within their borders.

Soviet Russia is giving no quarter and practicing neither honesty nor decency and she has no right either to demand or expect these things in return, although, even at the worst, she will receive them in a degree which very likely her dictator's oligarchy regards as merely stupid and foolish since they are wholly unconcerned with the advance of human decency or even with the preservation of civization itself.

The choice, however unsatisfactory or unpleasing, is being forced upon us and we should be wise enough not to be distracted from the reality of a grave situation either by sentimentality, childish idealisms, hysteria or vengeance.

THERE'S no use prolonging the back-tracking, the alibi-ing and the crow-eating. The best thing will be just not to mention the election at all. Everybody's tired of reading and talking about it, anyhow.

That's the easy way out. Nobody remembers now that there was a crack made here about that man from Missouri not standing a chance of being elected. It's all forgotten. So why bring it up?

* * *

At any rate we were careful to point out that the silence of the voters indicated a big mysterious trend. Why, sure. We knew all along how it was coming out. Just preferred to be mysterious about it, that's all. Sure, sure. That's all. Let's see now: the weather has been . . .!

Assignment: America

Unfunny 'Comic Books'

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Comic books, it seems, no longer need to be comic at all. But the question is—have they become tragic?

The reason for raising the question seems to be a revival of the eternal feud between moral-guiding and money-making — although the aforesaid distinction is not aimed at casting aspersions at either camp. Obviously, it is possible to belong to both.

The problem is that while everybody agrees that crime does not pay, still certain so-called comic books about why crime does not pay do pay, if you're still following all this.

And the argument is over whether the moral lesson or the criminal technique—both stressed in many comic books — is more intriguing to the small fry.

A couple of experts on opposing sides of the fence had their say about it the other day here in Washington before a session of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The ladies, who were delving into the intricacies of how youth can be best educated and most wisely entertained, reserved judgment on the subject.

It was quite an interesting session—particularly for an outsider not accustomed to watching the big shots in various industries being needled, poked and prodded verbally by the stern ladies. And, it should be added, taking it quite docilely.

Quite apart from the comic book controversy, the club women vigorously had at top-ranking representatives of the radio, television and movie industries.

They spoke sharply about bad English, filthy programs and bawdy pictures in the various fields. And they gave names and dates, although now and then their references were somewhat vague until the industry representatives stepped into the breach by supplying the name or date of the offending picture or program.

Probably it is not divulging a trade secret to report that the standard answer of such industry unfortunates was either "Yes, ma'am," or "No ma'am." After all, the nation's club women may speak softly but — ah well, you know the rest.

The comic book debate, however, departed somewhat from the general routine, in that two men fought it out, verb-to-verb, while the ladies listened.

Read By Many Adults.

THE ISSUE was whether current crime comic books tend to increase or decrease juvenile delinquency. Taking one side was Henry E. Schultz of the Association of Comic Magazine Publishers. Taking the other side was James Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. And, aside from the fact that they seemed occasionally to turn in sympathy toward one another as two lone males in a wilderness of women, they made quite a fight out of it.

Mr. Bennett said quite flatly that many of the comic books "appeal to the primitive instincts in people." He charged that "no one familiar with these magazines would contend they are character-building instruments."

Warming to his theme, he insisted that such books have "blueprinted crime in such a way that it can be and is imitated." Then he set out to document his theory with incidents of juvenile delinquents who had used comic magazines as crime copy-books.

Mr. Schultz was equally vehement, and just as quick to document his case. He told the ladies that his industry, at present, was the victim of a nation-wide hysteria. He said that crime comic books were read by far more adults than children.

He mentioned that some sixty million such magazines were sold every month, adding that one of the best-sellers was a little booklet entitled "Crime Doesn't Pay." Its sale, however, did pay, he conceded — thus providing one of the only two points definitely established by the debate.

After all, about all there was left for Mr. Schultz to do was to establish the other uncontested point of the debates. So-called comic books, he said, no longer necessarily had to be funny.

Who said they were?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Colorful Figures Among New Senators

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Here is a bird's eye view of some of the new men chosen for the Senate this week in one of the most historic elections in recent years:

Kerr of Oklahoma—The voters have swapped one oil man for another with ex-Governor Bob Kerr, Democrat, a wealthy oil man, succeeding multi-millionaire Republican Ed Moore in the Senate.

However, except for the fact that they are both oil men, the two are miles apart. Scrooge-like 77-year-old Ed Moore was a Senate spokesman for the big corporations, and made no secret of it. If a liberal idea ever entered his head it died from solitary confinement.

But Kerr was born in a log cabin near Ada, Oklahoma, and has never lost the common touch, despite his considerable wealth. And he has an infallible method of keeping his down-to-earth bearings.

"Whenever I am tempted to think like a rich man," says Kerr, "I remember the time I worked in a cement mill for 15 cents an hour."

When FDR was asked who should keynote the 1944 Democratic convention, when he was nominated for a fourth term, he replied, "I don't care, as long as it's Bob Kerr."

When Europe was clamoring for aid in the fall of 1947, Kerr didn't wait for Washington to act, but helped organize his own wheat relief committee. Kerr has broad-gauged views on protecting the future economy of the United States, and once warned President Truman that America may not be able to feed itself, much less others, twenty years from now unless we embark on a more extensive flood-control program to stop the costly erosion.

Kerr fought in the First World War as an artillery lieutenant, is a church-going family man, the father of four children. He doesn't drink, smoke, or chew, and his one chief vice is eating pears, which he consumes by the peck.

Gillette of Iowa—White-haired, never-say-die Guy Gillette is remembered for his battle to expedite the synthetic rubber program which Jesse Jones let lag so disastrously during the war and for the Roosevelt purge.

Now 69 years old, Gillette was a buck sergeant in the Spanish-American war and an infantry captain in World War I. He has been a battler from the time he first set foot in Washington in 1932 as a rookie congressman. He battled against food profiteers, for soil conservation, for reclamation, and for rural electrification. His most publicized battle was the 1938 primary contest with Otha Wearin, selected by the White House in the unsuccessful purge attempt.

Humphrey of Minnesota—Hubert Humphrey, who toppled Joe Ball in the Minnesota senatorial race, is a proverbial giant killer.

Less than four years ago, Humphrey literally wore his voice out at the 1944 Democratic convention in Chicago screaming for Henry Wallace.

In fact, Humphrey was such a rabid Wallace man that he refused to vote for Truman after Truman won and the convention chairman moved to make the nomination unanimous.

The trigger-tongued Humphrey will bring to the Senate a clamorous voice for civil rights and social reforms. As mayor of Minneapolis, one of his first acts was to set up a Council on Human Relations. He founded it on dreams, but made it work. Again at the Philadelphia convention, it was Humphrey who split the Democratic party wide open by demanding a strong civil rights platform. In retaliation, the Dixiecrats poured money into the Republican campaign in Minnesota and even sent ex-Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana up to help reelect Senator Joe Ball.

Built on springs, Humphrey won't hold still long in the Senate. He has the breathless personality of a youth on a roller-coaster. Jet-propelled ideas shoot through his head and take off on the busiest tongue in politics.

Neely of West Virginia—Friends of Matt Neely boast that he has run for more offices and been elected more times than any man in West Virginia politics. He began as a $45-a-month school teacher, resigned to try his luck at politics, served five terms in the house of representatives, three times as U. S. senator, once as governor of West Virginia, and once as mayor of his home town in Fairmont. This marks the fourth time West Virginia voters have chosen him for the Senate.

Matthew Mansfield Neely is best known as a crusader for an air-tight federal mine inspection law to prevent tragic mine accidents. Too many of them have occurred under slipshod and frequently graft-ridden state mine inspection.

Neely grew up in a mining community and accompanied his father, a country doctor, on many emergency calls to mine pits where death had struck.

Always a colorful figure, Neely is addicted to snappy suits of pistachio green, is noted for his frankness, but is secretive about one thing, his age. There's been a lot of guessing about this, and Matt refuses to tell even his close friends exactly how old he is.

However, Nov. 9, the senator-elect will be 74 years old. But many men 20 years younger would like to have Neely's health and stamina.

Honor Your Children!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU were taught to honor your parents — But how much do you honor your children?

Sounds sort of startling, doesn't it? We aren't accustomed to the idea of honoring young Horatius or respecting 13-year-old Susanna. We love them dearly. We'd give them anything within our means and usually far beyond our means.

We practically martyrize ourselves from the day they were born—to hear us tell it. But do we really honor them as human beings? Do we respect them as we expect them to respect us?

The late Joseph Loth Liebman, famous author of "Peace of Mind," asked that dynamic question shortly before he died and thereby hurled a whole atomic bomb at our domestic society.

"American parents lead the world in providing clothes, food, amusement and education for their boys and girls," said he, "but all too often the concept of honoring children by acknowledging them to be personalities with rights, privileges and responsibilities of their own have been pitiably left out. I believe therefore that we should heed not only the biblical commandment to 'honor thy father and thy mother' but another equally important commandment, 'honor thy son and thy daughter.' For unless we achieve a new clarity concerning the relationship between parents and children, we may as well forget the hope of a peaceful society and a better future for humanity."

In other words, the good pastor felt that all our wealth and power and political conniving might as well go to shucks unless we learn how to get along in the family as decent human beings.

If Mama and Papa are mean enough and quick enough on the ball they can manage to get at least a synthetic form of honor from the younger generation and this tradition has been followed so long that we accept it as a matter of course.

But should it be a matter of course? Should mothers and fathers be automatically honored unless they deserve honor? Should they be given tenderness and consideration if they do not show these shining virtues to their own kith and kin?

"We have laws in America," says Pastor Liebman, "for the protection of minority groups but no statute which covers children who find themselves in the position of minority groups at home. Many are the lynching parties that occur in this domestic society when talented, sensitive boys and girls are strung up on the high, invisible tree of parental contempt."

Earn Their Respect.

SOUNDS pretty horrid when you see it in black and white, doesn't it? And it is pretty horrid. But the simple, harsh fact is that the jungle has nothing on some of our living rooms. Without the slightest excuse we meddle and interfere, lie and pose before our precious darlings and then expect these sophisticated youngsters to regard us as semi-divinities.

Personally I'm for denying respect to anyone who has not earned it by the sweat of his or her brow. I do not believe you are entitled to honor simply because you wear the tag of mother or father.

For goodness sake let's cut out all this bosh about honor and respect and begin to face a little wholesome reality. If we want Jimmy or Sis to honor our bill of rights, let's honor theirs. If we want them to respect our way of life, let's respect theirs.

Instead of everlastingly crabbing at the kids, sit down and really do a little serious studying of the subject. Try to find out what they're all about. Be pals instead of jailers. Admit that they might have a bit more knowledge of certain subjects than we have and be humble about it.

Kids have rights and we should know it. And until we observe those rights we can't expect any courtesy from the younger set. That's what good Pastor Liebman said in his last message and he could have left us no more blessed heritage. If only we would act upon those words! But we won't. We'll always say he meant the other fellow and couldn't possibly have referred to us.

Autos From England.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 small to medium-sized British-built automobiles—mostly Austins and Fords—will be sold in the United States during 1948.

This looks like a drop in the bucket compared to American production, which has a maximum potential of hundreds of thousands of cars a week, but it nevertheless represents a great accomplishment for foreign manufacturers. The largest number of foreign cars sold in the United States in a previous year was 1456 in 1947.

The autos are being sold to buyers who want an economical second car; to people who cannot get delivery on an American-made machine. Others are selling themselves to purchasers on their merits—low fuel consumption, ease of handling and the fact that no trade-in is required.—Columbus Dispatch.

Air Mail Stamp

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

There's nothing sold for five cents any more,
They say, but I know one thing
I can buy
That trails true happiness from my front door to yours. It cleaves a pathway through the sky.

It gives wings to my words of love and faith.
It binds us close in friendship;
is a balm
To those we love brought low by pain or death.
It strengthens me with phrases
wise and calm.

It lights my loneliness, as mother's lamp
Once flooded with her love the rooms of home.
The greatest bargain is the air-mail stamp
Which I can buy for such a paltry sum!

As Cerf Tells It

A would-be tycoon complained to an influential friend, "Your son is injuring my reputation. He impersonates me every place he goes. I'm really getting angry about it."

"Calm yourself," said the father. "I caught my boy impersonating you myself, and I've warned him to stop acting like an idiot at once."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The highest point of land in continental United States is Mount McKinley, the peak of which is 20,300 in elevation.

Good Men With Money Hard to Get

'Wife for Sale' Proposal Fails

NEW YORK —(AP)— Dorothy Lawlor, the "wife for sale," is still no sale.

In the five months since she came into the public eye by advertising for a husband with $10,000, the ledger of the shapely blonde divorcee hows: letters, 3,000; wrong steers, 100, near misses 20; paid night club appearances, seven; all-expense-paid trips to interview prospects, two; husbands none.

Whether it's the inflationary price or diminishing demand and increased supply, the 28-year-old Mrs. Lawlor isn't sure. But she notes that a "good man is hard to find; the woods are full of phonies — kibitzers, cranks, comedians and guys just interested in a good time, not marriage."

A Colorado rancher wrote he was worth $100,000 but later he couldn't dig up Dorothy's fare; an Ohio machine-shop owner asked twice for pictures which do "not conceal your lovely attributes" and told her to write him care of his barber shop; one man sent a phony check for $1,600,000; all 34 members of a college fraternity house offered to raise the money and submitted a chapter proposal.

A patient in a Louisiana hospital wanted two or three hundred dollars to get a "parole or pardon"; a radio and appliances dealer in New Mexico talked about his "heart of gold" but never offered any; an Englishman vacationing in southern France casually invited her to "take a slip and come over here, if you can afford it", a "muscatel drinker" in Arizona apologized for having written that he was a wealthy ranch owner—he was really only a window washer, but surely, he said, Dorothy would like the Arizona air.

A dairy owner in Pennsylvania wrote at length about how much he desired marriage with Dorothy but he kept knocking down his own case.

First, he proved that he had been "too dumb" to make his second wife happy, that he had been mis-mated with his first wife, and anyway his second wife ran off with his first wife's brother. But he would really like to see Dorothy, he said, if it weren't for the "ice cream season."

A tough-minded individualist in Washington proposed, but id. "I don't think you can match my love, as I am very loveable, sweet and romantic...what are you, a bar fly and a gold digger, what does a good man mean to you what have you got that I haven't got I have good looks, personality and money. Money I am not giving you, will handle the money.."

Hawaii Fights Malayan Fly

HONOLULU — (AP)—Government insect experts trying to control the destructive Malayan fruit fly hope to catch the pest napping.

Entomologists now are searching in South Africa and Malaya for enemies of the fruit fly. They went to find insects that will attack the fly during the pupa or "sleepings", stage of its developement the Pacific in 1946, when traffic was moving freely in and out of Hawaiian ports, the Malayan fly found its way to the islands Now it is doing thousands of dollars worth of damage to Hawaii's fruit crops.

Cat Week Started By Ohio Boy Spreads Over Nation

COLUMBUS — (AP) You can't kill John Newton's cats and get away with it

A former neighbor of the 15-year-old Columbus high school junior tried it — and John started National Cat week in retaliation.

Now grown far beyond its original mold, the fourth annual celebration of this feline frolic begins Nov. 7. Cat lovers from coast-to-coast will participate.

The unidentified cat-hater who filled Newton's "Fluffy" full of buckshot more than four years ago apparently didn't understand young John, then a militant 11 years of age.

"Fluffy" was just a common orange-hued cat, but her lingering death really started something.

LAUNCHED IDEA

Sorrowing for his pet, young John read in the magazine "Cat" that Editor Charles A. Kenny of Utica, N Y, wanted a week dedicated to the appreciation and understanding of cats. That seemed like a fine idea to John He launched Kenny's idea in Columbus.

The first annual National Cat week attracted feline fanciers in both Columbus and Cleveland The idea, grew so reapidly that young Newton — still national chairman of National Cat week, Inc, a non-profit organization — says a national headquarters with paid employes is needed John's work brought him the humane act award of the American Veterinary Medical association in 1946.

Cat lovers want understood, said Newton with a boyish grin, that the cat is a lovable, faithful and often courageous companion who deserves as much respect and love from humans as the dog and other pets

Cats have saved human lives and there is even a seeing-eye cat, the youth said Newton cited the case of Faith, 12-year-old mother cat who shielded her litter on a corner of a tower in St Paul's church in London as blitz bumbs fell A plaque recently was erected to her memory

'Our organization aims to get a better deal for the cat," Newton said

National cat week, said John does most of its missionary work through literature published through donations obtained by the sale of cat week stickers This literature runs the gamut, from poems to paens.

"What do your parents think of this National Cat week?"

"Well," said John, with a slight grin, "I am up late lots of nights.

"You see, they like cats, but they can take them or leave them alone. They like them as pets, but they don't go for this professional stuff."

John's father is principal of a boys trade school and John, a sturdy, five-foot, 11-inch 150-pounder, is an only child

The boy who gave the push to National Cat week is now ably helped by scores of cat clubs and associations in all parts of the nation. This year's celebration will engage cat lovers in many cities, including Los Angeles, New York, Columbus, Chicago, Cleveland, Portland, Ore. Detroit, Louisville, Boston, Phoenix, Ariz, Dallas, Texas, New Rochelle, N. Y., Orlando, Wash, Decatur, Ill., and Dubuque, Iowa.

FRIENDLY FOES—During National Cat week, even dogs should be on friendly terms with their traditional foes. Snapper, the cat, and Snooks, the dog, pets belonging to the Herbert Kaufman family, 82 East First street, here demonstrate how to get along and still have fun. Both pets are six months old.

Community Players Affiliate With National Organization

Affiliation of the Mansfield Community Players with the American National Theater and Academy was announced yesterday by Edward D. Gibson, president of the players.

Upon invitation from ANTA, rical group has become another link in the nation-wide chain of professional, semi - professional and amateur groups represented in the theater and academy, Gibson said.

The Players are the second Mansfield group to belong to a national theatrical organization For several years the Mansfield Children's Theater, which operates in close cooperation with the players, has been affiliated with the American Educational Theater association.

"Clean-up" push of memberships to the players' productions this year will be staged Nov. 15 and 16, when the players will set up a booth in the Mansfield-Leland hotel lobby where season memberships will go on sale to the public. The booth will be open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m and from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. Memberships are $3 and entitle each holder to all three plays of the season Single admission tickets, also to be sold at the booth, will be $1.50.

First production of the season, "Suspect," will be presented at John Simpson auditorium Nov. 16 and 17 under the direction of H. H. Schettler.

Tribe Expects Better Days

ROCK HILL, S. C. — (AP) — Brighter days are ahead for a once-powerful, now almost defunct Indian tribe, the Catawbas. Tribe members are moving from their weatherbeaten huts on 600 acres on wornout land along the banks of the Catawba river into brand new cottages on 3,600 acres of fertile land near here

The change came with transfer of the Indians two years ago from state to federal government supervision The state supervision was a hangover from a peace treaty between the state and the tribe made almost 150 years ago. The Catawba nation lists 360 surviving members who are being moved as they apply for land in the new federally-supervised area.

Fifty-seven of the tribe's 92 known families have made application for tracts of land ranging from one to 50 acres, and others are planning to apply. Many already have moved The land is free and tax exempt, but the new homes must be paid for by the families taking them.

They're Shy of Humans

Sea Otters Are Lazy and Fun-Loving

BIG SUR, Calif.—Every day off this lonely, rugged shore, one of the greatest shows on earth plays to an empty house.

This is the hangout of the only sizable herd of sea otters south of Alaska Once hunted almost to extinction, this unusual animal is making a slow, protected comeback

It still is shy. The herd of some 500 off Big Sur frolics safely out in heaving beds of kelp. In the rocking swell, the otters roll and chase each other like fat kittens playing on a cozy hearth. They are graceful, highly streamlined creatures, and grow almost five feet long.

They loaf a lot, floating on their backs with their short forepaws and flipered hind feet stuck up in the air When the sun's glare keeps them awake, they cover their eyes with their paws and go to sleep anyway

Extra smart otters wind themselves up in a strand of kelp so the current will not wash them away from the herd during a nap.

This animal is born in the kelp and as far as anyone knows lives and dies there The California sub-species has not been seen ashore in a century. He can dive a hundred feet down for a juicy abalone or sea urchin, and when he brings his dinner up he lies back and enjoys it like a Roman emperor He holds it in his "hands" and goes at it like a stenographer biting into a drug-store sandwich

He likes clams too, but the big ones are too tough to crack with his teeth. So he brings up a flat rock with the clam, floats on his back and places the rock on his chest, and with both paws brings the clam down hard on the rock and breaks open his dinner.

Unhappily for photographers these antics take place beyond the range of most cameras and are zoologist at San Francisco State best watched through powerful binoculars.

However, Miss Edna M Fisher, college has spent most of her spare time during the past decade studying the Big Sur herd Her reports to the American Journal of Mammology are the source of most of the above details.

The sea otter always has been a charmer. For more than 200 years his quaint habits captivated the tough sea hunters of the northern Pacific. This in no way deterred them from practically wiping him out along 7,000 miles of Pacific coast in a merciless pursuit for his valuable fur. The otter's fur was among the finest in the world. A single pelt would bring as much as $100.

From Lower California to northern Japan, the sea otter lured adventurers. They wrote in their logs—along with their profits and shipwrecks—their amazement at the way this beast handled its food like a man, cared for its young like a woman, and behaved generally like a befurred mermaid.

More than one hunting captain, after slaying a mother otter for her pelt, tried to make a pet of her pup in a barrel of seawater. Always, the pup grieved so loudly for its mother that it had to be killed or turned loose to starve A ship's crew can take only so much wailing and mewing, noted one skipper

'You're In the Army Now!' - - 200,000 Draftees to Learn

Peace-Time Call to Arms Heard Again

Army Plans Fast Training Program

BY ROWLAND EVANS, JR.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The curtain has gone up on our second peace-time draft.

The first groups of 25-year old men went into the army this week for 21 months.

The draft is designed to increase the strength of our army from about 635,000 to about 900,000 by July 1, 1949. The army says it cannot guess how much of this will be acquired by the draft, that voluntary enlistments are unpredictable. A good guess, though, is that 200,000 will be drafted the first year. The draft expires June 21, 1950.

What will these men run into?

For months the army has been getting ready to receive them. Under the direction of Gen. Jacob L. Devers, army field forces chief, it has worked out a minutely-detailed training program to enable them to take over responsible duties as soon as possible.

The army feels it must train these men fast if it is to utilize them, for at the end of 21 months discharge is automatic for any draftee who wants it.

Men selected should find the civilian-to-military road a smooth one. Ten thousand go this month and 35,000 more during the next two months.

After simple induction proceedings at army recruiting stations, during which the oath is administered, the $75-a-month draftee is sent to one of the army's eight basic training divisions.

These are located at: Camp Pickett, Blackstone, Va. Fort Jackson, Louisville, Ky.; Camp Breckinridge, Evansville, Ind.; Camp Chaffee, Fort Smith, Ark.; Fort Riley, Junction City, Kas., and Fort Ord, Monterey, Calif.

The army says recruits (their official title) will be sent to training camps nearest their home but adds this might not be possible in every instance.

MILITARY A, B, C's

"Basic training" is the army term for military kindergarten. Recruits learn their left-right routine, how to fire a rifle, how to look neat in a fitted uniform and countless other "basic" military things. They operate on a strict 40-hour week.

On arrival at his training center, the recruit gets an orientation talk, is shown about the premises, meets his commanding officer and is told to write a letter home giving his new address.

Clothing, bedding, eating utensils and all other "basic" equipment are given him. He gets a dozen or so aptitude tests and immunization shots against major diseases.

These things consume the better part of a week. Then the 320-hour basic training starts in earnest.

His rifle, often called a soldier's best friend, will demand more of the recruit's attention than any other training item. Schedules call for 72 hours to be spent on rifle familiarization and range-firing. The standard, .30 M-1 (garand rifle) and the .30 carbine are the weapons he uses.

A large part of those 72 hours is spent learning the weapons' mechanisms and how to clean them. "Snapping in" or "dry firing" with weapons unloaded teaches the recruit basic firing positions.

Next in length of time are two items labelled "physical training" and "individual tactical training," each of which takes 30 training hours.

Physical training means calisthenics, obstacle courses and other forms of hard exercise. Tactical training includes scouting and patrolling, erecting hasty fortifications, learning cover and movement, concealment and camouflage and practice in combat formations.

Only 24 hours are given over to drill.

8 WEEK COURSE

Here's a rough outline of how the eight weeks will be apportioned.

FIRST WEEK: Instruction on maintenance of clothing and equipment, physical training, drill, cleanliness, etc.

SECOND WEEK: Dry-firing and continuation of first week training.

THIRD WEEK: First whack at rifle firing. Also drilling and physical training.

FOURTH WEEK: Thirty-two hours firing on the range.

FIFTH WEEK: Finish up rifle firing (12 more hours) and freshen up on basic military subjects.

SIXTH WEEK: Fire the carbine, go on short marches and learn something about bivouacs (short-duration encampment).

SEVENTH WEEK: Spent entirely in the field in combat maneuvers. There is no 'live' firing. Maneuvers take place in the training camp's hinterland. (average camp has 2,500 acres).

EIGHTH WEEK: Brushup of the whole basic training period and a general military subjects test.

If recruit doesn't pass he stays right on at basic training.

The recruit is now eligible for, and will likely get, the rating of private and the $5 a month raise which goes with it.

Orders come through for transfer and the new private does one of four things:

1. Goes to a regular army unit for more advanced training, either here or abroad. This will happen to most draftees.

2. Goes to an army school, like signal or artillery school, at a regular army post.

3. Stays at his training center to attend "leadership school" and becomes a permanent part of the training personnel.

4. Goes to an officer candidate school. Few draftees will do this. Those who do must agree to sign up for 24 months' service as an officer after graduating.

When its units get to authorized strength, the army plans to lengthen its basic training course to 13 weeks.

Myers to Go To Convention

Floyd M. Myers, president of the Richland county Federation of Labor, will be a representative at the 67th national convention of the American Federation of Labor opening in Cincinnati Nov. 15.

He will represent the local AFL central body and help plan a program of recommendations to congress. Included on the convention's agenda of legislation will be measures pertaining to housing, inflation, minimum wages, social security, health insurance, educational subsidization, and civil rights.

Spokesmen of the AFL announced that the convention will demand and insist "that an agreement shall be promptly reached which will definitely and irrevocably provide for international peace and guaranteed security."

EXCLUDED FROM BIRTH

LONDON —(AP)— King George VI has decided to dispense with the presence of a cabinet minister at the birth of Princess Elizabeth's baby. The king dismissed the custom of having a cabinet member in attendance as an "archaic" survival with "no legal requirement."

Congressional Delegation Opposes Taft-Hartley Law

COLUMBUS —(AP)— How does Ohio's revamped congressional delegation stand on the day's major issues?

On the basis of definite answers to an Associated Press poll, Ohio representatives would do this:

They would give a unanimous vote to farm price support at present levels.

They would repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law.

They would continue foreign aid through ECA and would give direct aid to Greece and Turkey.

Based on answers definite enough to permit tabulation, the vote was:

For farm price support 9; against 0. No comment 7.

For price controls 4, against 4. No comment 6; questionable 2.

For repeal of Taft-Hartley law 8; against 3. No comment 4; questionable 1.

For ECA and direct Greece-Turkey aid 9; against 1. No comment 2; questionable 4.

Seven Ohio congressmen could not be reached.

No Ohio congressman came out against farm price support—the only one of the four proposals obtaining such support—but a number of representatives either declined comment or qualified their answers extensively.

None of the other proposals drew the number of terse "no comments" that the farm parity question generated, either. Seven of 16 polled congressmen had nothing definite to say, and some of the answers considered favorable were generalizations.

For instance: "I want what the farmers want." "I favor support adjusted to the basic cost of living and cost of production." "The 80th Congress is already on record to continue farm support through 1949. I don't know what additional legislation in this matter might come before us." "I favor farm support generally, but would like to consult representatives of community and farm leaders as to level."

6 ANSWERS INDEFINITE

Six of the indefinite answers were made by Republicans; one by a Democrat.

On the question of price controls, which brought a deadlock to Ohio congressional thinking, six of the polled declined comment—four Democrats, two Republicans. Two others gave answers of questionable direction: "Favor ceilings at present levels," and "where commodities are definitely out of line and out of reach of the American family, I feel that the producers and marketers should be warned and given an opportunity to get in line. Then, if they don't, controls should be placed on them."

The controversial Taft-Hartley law, which many observers felt had a major influence on the outcome of last Tuesday's election, drew outright opposition from two Republicans and one Democrat. Four declined comment and one answer was questionable as to intent.

One of the answers placed in the repeal column also was a generalization: "I favor modification if the facts warrant."

There appeared to be less indecision among the answers favoring repeal than on any other question, however.

The vital foreign aid issue elicited only two "no comments," but four of the questioned—one Democrat and three Republicans—gave answers so indefinite they could not be tabulated for or against.

Said one congressman: "Absolutely opposed to foreign aid program as presently constituted."

The speaker was a Republican.

Said a Democratic congressman: "I favor such aid as will enable us to rebuild and help western Europe to again become self-supporting."

The study of the poll tabulation shows four Republicans and five Democrats favoring current level farm prices support; four Republicans against price controls and three Democrats and one Republican for them.

Two Republicans and one Democrat furnished the opposition to repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and the proponents of repeal are split with five Democrats and three Republicans.

One Republican—Cong. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester—and one Democrat—Cong. Robert Crosser of Cleveland—declined answers to any of the four questions.

Make-Believe World Comes to Life

New Dolls Rate as Slick Chicks

By MARGUERITE MILLER

That wee, wonderful world of make-believe is shaking off the story book cobwebs.

This Christmas, the baby dolls will be just as chic as the fashion-minded younger set who get them. The golden curl era is as "out" as short skirts. It's either pert braids tied with ribbon or feather cuts and bangs now.

And the outfits the dolls display puts a crafty gleam in the eye of "Willie the Wolf" doll who has been added to the realm this year.

WILLIE'S A DILLY

Far from the long-nosed rascal who led Red Riding Hood astray in the Mother Goose rhymes, Willie is strictly a street corner "sharpie." From his conniving grin to the snug bottoms of his checked zoot suit, he's about the most personable thing that's hit the doll market in years.

There's no excuse for any doll to be a one-outfit plaything this year. Practically every doll department in the city has racks of doll clothes, displayed on miniature hangers. Crib and carriage blankets are boxed as attractively as "grown-up" merchandise.

Most of the stores report that Christmas shopping for dolls has already eaten into their stocks—especially in the case of layette dolls and the "old fashioned" baby dolls that cry "mama" and close their eyes. They're still the most popular with the pre-school and real-life dolls.

PRICE VARIETY WIDE

Popular price for the fancy dressed doll with eyes that close and hair is $6 to $7. Ones with real hair come a little higher at around $8, $9 and $10. And you can go as high as $15 for a bit of moulded plastic and pretty trimmings.

National statisticians predict doll-buyers will spend about 20 per cent above their normal $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 this year. That, they add, is just about the same amount spent annually in the U. S. for office furniture.

This year, a new outfit for a doll plus a few odds and ends, such as satin-bound bed blankets, bathrobes, shoes and socks, will run almost as much as a new doll.

WARDROBES EXTENSIVE

Little chintz housecoats for the average sized doll run $1.29. Separate dresses can be had for as low as 69 cents and dress and hat outfits for $1.69 and up. Satin-bound blankets are $1.98 and carriage covers start at $1.29.

If the real-life counterpart of the doll shows an early domestic trait, there are portable sewing machines that really stitch a dress up in no time flat. All Mother has to do is save her sewing scraps.

Although the hard-bodied dolls are holding their own in sales, the "skin" dolls with soft rubber hands and legs are the favorites, clerks say. Aside from the composition of the doll, you have a choice of dolls that drink water, eat cookies, coo, cry, and talk.

NEEDS EQUIPMENT

And that well-cared-for baby doll needs a wide variety of equipment. A layette complete with diapers, blankets, shirts, nursing bottle and swabs to clean its ears is just about standard equipment whether you pay $3.95 or much more. Elaborate layettes themselves can run as high as $15.

But, if you buy little sister a doll for Christmas, you'll be hearing about all the "extras" that Susie down the street got for her little "family." These extras, which run as high as $10, includes washing machines for doll diapers, doll bathinettes, and cribs that range from $1 to the super de luxe models with imported lace.

Versatile doll displayed at New York toy show blows bubbles when stomach is pressed.

Expert Calls for Statewide Vote Registration In Ohio

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A state expert on elections suggested Saturday statewide registration of all voters and installation of voting machines in Ohio's 88 counties to modernize the election system.

Leland Dougan, chief assistant to Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel, said the two reforms would cure most of the ills of the state's present slow and laborious way of counting votes. The Secretary of State's office has the job of operating Ohio's election system.

Ohio is becoming such a heavily populated state that registration of voters is needed in rural areas of counties as well as cities, Dougan said. He pointed out that precinct workers are no longer acquainted with persons livink in the community like they were when fewer persons voted.

Statewide registration, Dougan said, would do away with confusion and prevent fraud.

MACHINES SPEEDY

Voting machines installed in all counties would modernize the election system by speeding up returns, Dougan said.

"When the votes came in slowly," Dougan said, "some people think there is something crooked about the election. All of this trouble can be eliminated by using voting machines."

Dougan reported that voting machines are now being used in four counties and that at least 12 others, including Cuyahoga, will have them installed within a short time.

He listed counties now using voting machines as Lake, Clark, Montgomery and Lorain.

Lorain county used voting machines for the first time in Tuesday's election.

Dougan said the machines tabulate the election returns instantly, eliminate the possibility of casting an invalid ballot, prevent fraud, and cut the election costs substantially after the initial outlay for the equipment.

Election Upset Snarls Public Opinion Polls

Research Agencies Face Policy Change

NEW YORK—(AP)—President Truman's sensational victory in Tuesday's election may have an effect on every phase of the nation's life from soap to sex. It's all because of the way the President upset the pre-election forecasts of the major public opinion.

Attempting to predict election results has been only a small part of the work of the public opinion samplers. Hundreds of polling agencies have spend most of their time trying to feel the public pulse for businessmen, students of social trends and the government.

Their "samples" have guided manufacturers in designing automobiles, in naming soap powder, in preparing tubes of toothpaste. Many big advertisers in recent years have seldom planned an advertising campaign without first trying to get public reaction in advance.

The "sampling" technique has spread far into other fields. Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's famed study on male sex behavior was based on "samples" of the adult population. Many big corporations have polled employes to try to find out what they wanted to make them happy. Movie producers have shown film scenes to a small part of the population to try to tell which parts would appeal to the nation as a whole. Radio comedians have won—and lost—contracts on the basis of reports showing that a small part of the public listened—or failed to listen—to their programs.

A recent estimate said that 5,000 interviewers spent full or part time "feeling the public pulse." Until now, the results have been accepted almost without question.

In a newly published book, one prominent author—Stuart Chase—suggested that the sampling polls gave economics the tool it needed to help raise itself to a "science."

What will happen to the pulse-takers now?

Many of them say it's too early to tell. A spokesman for Dr. George Gallup's organization, the American Institute of Public opinion, says surveys for businessmen are in some ways different and easier than attempting to foresee elections.

"Opinion research" first came into use after World War 1, and really began to move during the depression. The technique of testing a small representative part of the public and projecting the results to show averages for the entire population was used first by advertising agencies. These "scientific" samplers scored a big success in 1936 by correctly forecasting Roosevelt's victory over Landon.

At that time the Literary Digest had not polled a representative "cross-section" but had based its results on postcards returned by telephone owners. By polling carefully selected representatives of all classes, the "scientific" pollsters said, they were sure of about 97 per cent accuracy.

Successes in forecasting the 1940 and 1944 national election results—and many lesser campaigns during that period—improved the researchers' standing. Some 30 universities, including Harvard, Princeton and Columbia began courses in polling. The system spread to countries throughout the world. Pollsters began to finger pulses everywhere.

Last year the "Wall Street Journal" estimated there were at least 20 research companies earning $20,000,000 a year. Scores of big corporations set up marketing research departments of their own.

Taking between 1,000 and 50,000 interviews on a subject, surveys have asked whether the public would buy a new kind of sun tan oil to the price it thought a brand of whiskey was worth.

Pollsters reported that two per cent of Amerian husbands smoke in bed, that one out of three suffers from foot troubles, that 38 per cent of Americans think they are very happy, that most women want the word "obey" left out of the marriage ceremony.

The government took up polling and spends millions on surveys every year. It was wanted to find out how to sell more war bonds, what foods GI's prefer to eat and how many colds the average american has a year. Hundreds of other polls have been used by government agencies to help them formulate policies.

Pulse-takers rushed into France with the invading American forces in 1944 to learn French reactions to the earlier allied bombings. In postwar Germany the army has tried to find out how its occupation policies were working.

The fate of government sampling polls now may be a question. The new President has served notice that he puts more faith in old Missouri intuition. He proved his intuition more accurate than the "scientists" when he remarked, a week ago:

"The faces of the poll takers will be red the day after election."

COLUMBUS —(AP)— International and national authorities in the welfare field will take part in the 58th annual Ohio Welfare conference opening in Columbus Nov. 13.

More than 3,000 persons are expected to attend the four-day meeting.

Dr. Herschel Nisonger of Ohio State university, president of the conference, said all phases of welfare will be covered at six general sessions and 30 sectional meetings.

Dr. Nisonger announced Saturday Dr. George F. Davidson of Ottawa, Canada, will address the general session Tuesday night, Nov. 16. Dr. Davidson is Canadian deputy minister of welfare.

Nationally known speakers will include Mrs. Spencer Tracy, wife of the movie actor. Dr. Nisonger said she was one of the nation's outstanding workers on behalf of the deaf. She is director of the John Tracy clinic in Los Angeles.

MANY SPEAKERS

Other major speakers will be Col. Charles B. Booth of Indianapolis, national commander of the Volunteers of America; Dr. Oscar B. Markey of Cleveland, and Miss Charlotte Johnson of American Red Cross headquarters in Washington.

Ohio welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood will give the conference a report on the state's progress in the public welfare field during the past year.

Child welfare and health problems will be discussed by national authorities at the sectional meetings. Major attention will be given the problem of juvenile delinquency and steps taken to combat it.

Other officers of the welfare conference are J. M. Sang, Akron, first vice-president; Mrs. C. C. Shively, Columbus, second vice-president; H. H. Shirer, Columbus, treasurer, and Miss Hannah Protzman, Cleveland, executive secretary.

Works 43 Years for Political Vacation

Barkley 'Shelved' for 4 Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — To Alben W. Barkley, the vice presidency to which he was elected last Tuesday will be like a four-year vacation with pay.

He has been a hard worker in politics for 43 years. As senate Democratic leader for the past 11 years he has laboriously shepherded the administration programs there. His power was tremendous until the Republicans captured the senate in 1946.

Now he will spend his time chiefly in gavel-pounding on the senate rostrum. He probably will be invited to attend cabinet meetings as most recent vice presidents have—Coolidge, Curtis, Garner, Wallace and Mr. Truman.

There is little else a vice president can do. Like Curtis and Garner, he is likely to exert a strong influence on his former colleagues in the senate—but it will be through private talks off the floor, not in committees.

A vice president has no constitutional power except to preside over the senate and cast a vote in case of a tie. He doesn't give orders to anybody. He doesn't function as an executive anywhere in the government unless the President assigns him to some special study or temporary administrative post, such as Henry A. Wallace held for a couple of years under President Roosevelt.

A vice president, as one recent incumbent said off the record, is "like a man in a cataleptic fit—he sees all that goes on around him, but he cannot take part in it."

Here's a complete list of the vice president's duties and powers:

1. Presiding over the Senate and casting votes in case of a tie. The average vice president casts 1 to 3 votes. Only 202 votes have been cast by vice presidents throughout American history.
2. Appointing a few minor Senate committees.
3. Attending cabinet meetings.
4. Signing enrolled bills and joint resolutions of Congress.
5. Serving as a member of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian institution.
6. Appointing five midshipmen to the Naval academy and four senators to the academy's Board of Regents.
7. Recommending to the President the appointment of two candidates for the Military academy.

On some ceremonial occasions he substituted for the President—laying wreaths, making speeches, watching parades. But officials here say that vice presidents haven't been found very satisfactory even for those tasks. As one of them explained it:

"The American people are not impressed with a title. The man they want to see is the one who makes the decisions."

The vice presidency is an office which has baffled our political theorists from the constitutional convention to the present day. Right now many experts are strongly advocating the abolition of the post through a constitutional amendment.

Few other governments have such an officer, not even many of the Latin American republics, whose constitutions were patterned after ours. In case a President dies, many say, hold an election as soon as practicable and meanwhile apply the same rule of succession which is used now when we don't have a vice president.

Many men in the constitutional convention opposed the creation of the vice presidency. They predicted that he frequently would be just another politician chosen by politicians to "balance the ticket."

When the first congress was attempting to agree on the best way to address a vice president, one wag suggested "his superfluous excellency."

Coffee Price Up In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO — (AP) — There's lots of coffee in Brazil, but the price of a cup is going up. The rising price of coffee is causing the disappearance of the traditional cafes of Rio de Janeiro where in bygone times most of the nation's business was transacted.

Brazil's national drink is the cafezinho (little coffee) which is a demitasse of black, hot, sweet coffee. Brazilians dring coffee not only at mealtime but all during the day. Little coffees are served at mid-morning and mid-afternoon in government agencies and large business houses, while cafes cater to those who have time to leave their work.

For a decade before the war, and even until a short time afterward, the price of a cafezinho was about one American cent. In 1946 it took a 50 per cent jump. Then the government withdrew its coffee subsidy. Cafes then began closing. Fourteen traditional cafes in the center of Rio have closed since 1946. Others began selling fruit and lunches and even American soft drinks.

New Album Acclaimed

NEW YORK — (AP) — Frank De Voi, the bandleading gentleman whose brilliant background for the Nat Cole version of "Nature Boy" was one of the principal attractions of that flash in the juke boxes, has a new album which should hold its listeners longer than the aforementioned musical quickie.

It's a Capitol record album called "Classics in Modern." De Voi has taken six bits of classical compositions which previously were truncated into popular form, and has arranged and presented them attractively. The instrumentation is classical, with full sweeping strings, oboe, bassoon, English horn, harp. The arrangement is modern, with a delicately swung temp. The result is about halfway between jazz and the classics; middle-brow music is good enough description.

The various items include "The Lamp Is Low," which was lifted from Ravel's "Pavanne;" "The Breeez and I," which used to be part of Ernesto Lecuona's "Andalucia Suite;" "On The Isle of May," once Tschaikovsky's "Andante Cantabile;" "If You Are But a Dream," erstwhile of Rubinstein's "Romance;" "Our Love," from P. I. Tschaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet Overture;" and "Moon Love," also from the last-named fellow's fifth symphony, second movement. Very pleasant listening.

Students Conquer Bitter Arctic Cold

NOME, Alaska—(AP)—A school for survival is holding class on frozen tundra and wind swept ice packs.

The school was founded a year ago by the Alaska air command. Its purpose is to show fliers how to exist in the arctic should a mishap maroon them.

A staff of "survival experts," both air force personnel and Eskimos, are the faculty.

The course involves two problems—how to live indefinitely on either ice pack or tundra.

The tundra is the frozen plain north of Nome. The ice packs lie against the shoreline of the Seward peninsula to the west and south.

The basic course is given in a week to classes of 60. The students are commissioned and enlisted members of flight crews on duty in Alaska.

One day of instruction in Nome starts the candidate off.

The next day, walking on snow shoes and carrying a 50-pound pack, he moves north into the barrenlands—choked with drifted snow and sparsely dotted with scrub willow trees. There he is isolated with a group of fellow trainees and an instructor at a theoretical crash site.

Then the battle begins for life and sanity in temperatures ranging from zero to 50 or 60 degrees below.

The fight is waged with only the supplies the student has in his pack and the know-how of his instructor.

Shelters are built of blocks of snow or snow caves are dug into huge drifts.

The students learn that snow is an excellent insulation against cold; that one small candle will warm the interior of a snow shelter so much that outer garments may be removed.

They find that parachutes, willow branches and string or wire will strengthen snow shelters.

LEARN BEST METHODS

They learn that a saw is better than an axe or a knife for cutting snow block; that vents must be made to eliminate carbon monoxide gas from oil heaters.

They see that snow huts are windproof, virtually waterproof and easily heated.

The snow caves are dug usually by two men—one tunneling into the drift while the other removes the snow. To avoid loss of heat, the entrance is made as small as possible.

The sides and roof of the cave are formed into rough arches, increasing the structural strength and keeping melting snow on the inside of the walls from dripping on the occupants. The moisture freezes, forming an insulating coat of ice.

The main room is made high enough to permit the men to sit up at meals. These are cooked on gasoline stoves, small enough to fit into the pocket of a parka.

After the lessons on the tundra, the students return to Nome for more lectures.

Then they are loaded onto trucks and taken to the shoreline west of Nome.

There they hike onto the ice pack and follow procedures similar to those on the tundra.

There's a difference, however. They can fish. They are taught to fish through the ice with barbless hooks and how to land a fish without getting their mittens wet.

The entire group cooperates in building an ice house. This is approximately six feet in diameter, formed of ice blocks cut and shaped with a saw.

GIVEN ICE COATING

When the ice house is complete, snow is packed in the outside cracks and a fire lighted outside, resulting in a coating of ice which further strenghtens the shelter.

The 10th air sea rescue squadron is in charge of rescue in Alaska. It is equipped with amphibian planes which in water rescues can drop completely equipped non-sinkable, non-capsizable Higgins boats. In land operations, it can deliver supplies and complete dog teams by parachute.

The air force has found that dog teams are not by any means obsolete. They have proved to be the most reliable method of transportation in polar regions.

The helicopter bogs down in heavy snow and soft ice; the amphibion catterpillar "weasel" frequently develops trouble because of frigid temperatures.

The Alaska air command says the roughest going can be overcome by dog teams. Eskimo drivers do most of the sled driving for U. S. forces in Alaska.

Super Fly Killer, DDT, Now Has Trouble Doing Good Job

WASHINGTON—That super fly killer, DDT, is having trouble killing flies. Flies apparently are building up a resistance to it. Dr. P. N. Annand, chief of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says reports have come from several parts of the country that DDT didn't kill the 1948 crop of flies.

This is what the fly experts have feared. Apparently the flies are giving a good demonstration of the old jungle law of the survival of the fit. But the fly experts have several aces up their sleeves.

Dr. Annand says this is the situation:

Flies are killed by coming in contact with DDT, spraved on surfaces. It works through their nervous systems. Apparently a fly gets a "hot foot" after he alights in an area sprinkled with DDT. Some flies already have received a killing dose of the poison by the time their feet begin to tingle.

Some other flies apparently can take more DDT and live to tell their grandchildren about it. After escaping they breed. And they pass on to their offspring this ability to take a dose of DDT that would be a knockout punch to another fly. Possibly their feet are more sensitive to DDT, too. So it turns out the weak flies, or ones with insensitive feet, are killed. Other flies, with sensitive feet, of strong physique, survive to breed a super family.

Club Events, Elections Hold Spotlight

By MARGIE GOODMAN

Club news and new officers are again taking the spotlight this week in the news coming out of M.H.S.

In the girls' athletic department, Margaret Walters was elected to head Tumbling club for the coming year, with Carolyn Lee holding down the job of secretary.

Leaders' club took in eighteen new members who had served their apprenticeship and were voted into the club by a majority of the present members. Billie Bride, Margaret Christ, Jean Sinerson, Betsy Clark, Marilyn Williams, Carolyn Lee, Carolyn Cline, Barbara Staples, Audrey Pirrgo, Joan Jackson, Margaret Walters, Rosemary Zeides, Donna Loesch, Dorothy Cole, Judy Rodey, Merlyn Blackbern, Thelma Stover and Katherine Beatty are these girls. Leaders' club has the distinction of being one of the few clubs at M.H.S. that requires its members to maintain a B average on their grade cards in order to remain an active member of the organization.

All Hi-Y and Blue Tri clubs have been very busy sponsoring the traditional hayrides for the last few weeks. Senior Blue Tri, headed by Emily Stephan, is having programs that the members are vitally interested in. The future holds bridge classes, various speakers, and several of our local ministers on the program committee's agenda.

Elaine Hartley, president of Junior Blue Tri, tells me that their main project has been to raise money for the spring formal.

Remember the day—the twenty-seventh of November! That's the day when we all leave our worldly and sophisticated ways behind us, let down our hair, and take off for the annual square dance sponsored by the Senior class.

This promises to be such big success that we almost are willing to say that if you don't have a good time we'll give you double your money back.

EXHIBIT SCHEDULED

All the local Robin Hoods take note of this—J. J. Lynch is presenting an exhibition and discussion of archery at the next assembly, November 16. This nationally known trick-shot artist with a bow and arrow has performed at numerous sport shows, theaters, and outdoor shows. Part of his program will be concerned with archery as a physical education program and its interesting history. He will also demonstrate the atom-ball shot, two-arrow shot, billiard-shot, backward-shot, and many other feats of skill.

The school bond issue was passed again this year and a lot of credit for its success goes to the many speech students from Mansfield High School who spent their own time going to various clubs and organizations talking about the advantages of this issue.

Singapore Hails New-Type Buses

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Singapore is streamlining its transportation system. Modern, chrome-trimmed trolley buses with pneumatic tires now carry 29,000 passengers a day, according to an official estimate. When more are put into service at the end of the year and the remaining 15 older models are scrapped, the buses are expected to attract still more customers.

Even now Singapore is away ahead of most other Far Eastern cities on the transportation score. Rickshas, illegal here, have been replaced by trishas—bicycles with side-cars. There are no trolley cars. And the flow of traffic, comparatively speaking, is well regulated.

Steel Nationalization Bill Brews Bitter British Battle

Parliament Faces Test In Election

Nation Weighs Bid For Socialism

LONDON —(AP)— The bitterest British political battle in years is brewing over nationalization of the steel industry—key to the labor government's "peaceful socialist revolution."

"Steel is the heart of capitalism." That's the battlecry.

The issue of state control versus private ownership of steel probably won't be settled until the voters give the final word in the 1950 general elections. The bill probably will be passed a few months before the elections, but informed labor sources say the taking over of the industry may be deferred until after the vote.

The voters' verdict will determine whether Britons are firmly committed to the Socialist principle that the government should control the nation's industry and economy.

For permanent government control of steel means permanent, if indirect, control of all manufacturing from baby buggies to ocean liners.

The steel nationalization bill was introduced at the opening of the new parliament last week to bring the industry under public ownership by May, 1950, with existing managements remaining in charge of the nationalized firms working under a government holding corporation.

Firms will be free to compete with each other, but the corporation will control prices and organize development and research while holding ownership of capital stock of 107 major firms capitalized at the equivalent of $780,000,000 and employing some 300,000 persons of the 500,000 in the industry. Most smaller firms will operate under government license.

In terms of capacity, the government will get control of 97.5 per cent of ore producers, 97.6 per cent of smelters, 99.3 per cent of ingot plants and 93.6 per cent of rolling mills.

ACTION DEFERRED

For three years the Labor government elected on a platform pledging public ownership of key industries, had deferred what Socialist writers call "an attack on the citadel of capitalism." During that period it nationalized coal, electricity, railroads, long distance trucking, gas, airlines and the bank of England.

In those fields, one of the main arguments of government supporters was that nationalization would increase efficiency.

In steel it's a different story, to some extent Britain's steel industry since the war has been producing more than ever before in its history. Month by month, it has been exceeding government production targets. It is well under way on a £200,000,000 ($800,000,000) plan expansion and modernization program.

Socialist - minded government followers dispute the private steelmakers' claims of efficiency, but their main argument for public ownership is summed up by Labor M. P. Ian Mikardo in these words:

"The industry represents a growing concentration of power in the hands of a small number of individuals, to an extent which might seriously endanger political democracy."

Private steelmakers, on the other hand, say the postwar iron and steel board, which advises the government on price fixing and supervises development, already adequately safeguards the public interest.

Public ownership and operation, they argue, would bring only confusion and inexperienced management to a highly complex industry with a resulting loss production—at a time when Britian is straining all her resources for recovery and rearmament.

About half of North Dakota is drained by the Missouri river.

Don't Scoff at Dancing Daughter

Many Girls Follow Twinkle-Toe Path to Stardom

By GEORGE TRAMMELL
(CP Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD—Many of the modern-day movie queens have tripped a twinkle-toed path to screen stardom in a pair of dancing slippers.

The list of reigning belles of the box office includes so many former hoofers, in fact, that lancing has practically become a synonym for success on the silver screen.

Dancing contests, the nightclub stage, the ballet, Broadway chorus lines and vaudeville hoofing acts all have provided Hollywood with future starring prospects.

Those countless of thousands of fond and doting mothers who religiously dragged their pigtailed offspring to dancing class every Friday have lived—some of them—to see their little girls grow up into full-fledged dramatic stars.

Joan Crawford, who one day was to win a coveted Academy Oscar as Holywood's finest dramatic actress of the year, first took up dancing for therapeutic reasons following an injury to her foot.

After only a few months, Miss Crawford was proficient enough to capture first prize in a Charleston contest. The award got her a booking in a nightclub.

That led to the musical comedy stage—and the eye of Hollywood eventually was focused on the attractive hoofer and she was lured to California.

BARBARA STANWYCK, after adorning Broadway revues for several years, danced and sang her way from the lead of "Burlesque" into a movie career that has been marked by numerous triumphs in highly-emotional roles. Miss Stanwyck paid for her early dancing lessons by clerking in a five and ten-cent store in Brooklyn.

Paulette Goddard once swung on silver moons in the fabulous musical shows of Florenz Ziegfeld. One night she was enjoying an evening of dancing at the famed Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles' Ambassador hotel.

A film talent scout spotted her. A screen test was passed with flying colors. Charlie Chaplin latched onto Miss Goddard as leading lady in one of his movies. They were married—and one of movie town's finest screen careers was an assured success.

Phyllis Calvert, an actress of distinction, is fast becoming an international star. The talented British-born girl went to dancing school as a youngster in England. Her mother had high hopes that little Phyllis might some day be good enough to be able to teach dancing.

She made her first professional appearance in a musical comedy touring British provinces. In addition to her dancing routines, Miss Calvert delivered a few lines of dialogue.

THAT INITIAL encounter with the thespian life was enough to set Phyllis' heart on becoming a dramatic actress. She has succeeded in fulfilling her own ambitions—and exceeding her mother's hopes—for both the stage and screen.

Eleanor Powell first hit Hollywood with the enviable tag of "the world's greatest feminine tap dancer." Like many of her dancing sisters, Miss Powell has fully demonstrated that she can emote as well as trip the light fantastic before the camera.

Lucille Bremer is another beauty who likewise has added acting to her celluloid activities.

And of course there is Ginger Rogers. The blond babe from Texas and Independence, Mo., became Fred Astaire's screen dancing partner in several million - dollar musical productions.

Then Ginger turned to straight dramatic roles—and was so good that she, too, copped a coveted Oscar. Miss Rogers' early dance training grew out of her work in vaudeville and movie theater stage shows.

Did you ever hear of Rita Cansino? You probably know her better as Rita Hayworth, generally regarded as one of Hollywood's most polished dramatic actresses. She first attracted attention as a dancer in the Mexican border towns of Tijuana and Ague Caliente.

THE CLASSICAL ballet has sent its share of stars to Hollywood. Tamara Toumanova, Vera Zorina, Irina Baronova and Cyd Charisse all have added their grace and artistry to motion picture roles, and each has veered away from actual dancing to concentrate more and more on straight drama.

Many other leading luminaries of the screen have pattered their way to film fame by virtue of their terpsichore. Mary Martin is a former dancing school teacher from Weatherford, Tex.

Betty Grable, whose million-dollar gams flashed in stage shows from Broadway to Burlingame, broke into pictures as a "cute little hoofer." Marjorie Reynolds once did an adagio number in Hollywood Bowl, where the inevitable talent scout spotted her.

Scores of screendom's outstanding male actors got their start as dancers — George Raft, Jimmy Cagney, George Jessel, Van Johnson, Mickey Rooney, Gene Kelly, George Murphy. But that's another story.

The point is, the dancing daughters of today—the cuties who are pounding their brains out in night club floor shows and stage shows and on the line of musical comedies—may well be the famous Hollywood stars of tomorrow.

A Hospital In 1998

Scientific—But Who'll Hold Your Hand?

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO —(AP)— It will never be fun to be sick, but it may come close to it in 1998.

That is, if hospital conditions 50 years from now are like those envisioned by an architect, a consultant, a hospital administrator, a nurse, a physician and an economist in articles in the publication "The Modern Hospital."

In their composite views, a patient's hospital life in 1998 would go something like this.

You wake up with a pain, afraid you are going to die, and start shouting for a doctor.

An ambulance picks you up at your front door, gathers speed, unfolds its wings and lifts into the air. At the hospital, the ambulance lands, retracts its wings and rolls into an underground parking lot.

On the outside, the hospital doesn't even remotely resemble a 1948 hospital. The floors are laid out in separated layers to admit the maximum amount of sunshine. One way glass is used liberally throughout. Patients on the inside can look out through it, but people on the outside can't see in.

You tell an attendant: "Take me to a stuffy old ward. I'd like to save a bit on my bill."

He explains that pre-payment medical care plans have outmoded wards in the old sense; that they are only for patients desiring the companionship of other patients.

AIR STERILIZED

Then, somewhat stuffily, he points out that there isn't a stuffy spot in the place. The hospital is hermetically sealed. Air is sucked in through an intake on the roof, sterilized by supersonic vibration, heated or cooled as needed and circulated through the building. Electricity, generated by an atomic furnace, furnishes power and heat.

Your nurse, a pert red-head, gets you ready for the doctor and leaves.

The doctor is a tall gent and his back arches like a hoop when he bends over your bed. He straightens up, presses a button and the bed shoots up like a barber's chair.

"Are you going to operate Doc?" you ask in a quavering voice.

He smiles and shakes his head. Operations are much more rare in this age. Use of antibiotics and other wonder drugs bring cures in many cases that formerly required surgery.

He presses another button on the bed and it starts oscillating. That affords gentle exercise for patients unable to get up, and also prevents bed sores.

But he warns you not to get too attached to the bed. In this age, he explains, more patients are treated standing up than lying in bed.

The doctor leaves and an attendant comes in with a pad. "What do you want to eat for the next week," he asks. "We're going to cook it now."

'ELECTRONIC' FOOD

This jars your appetite until he explains that the food is prepared by electronically-induced heat. Then it is quick frozen, put on trays and stored until needed. It can be reheated electronically in a few seconds—without loss of flavor.

You lie back on the bed. This is the life, but you're a little lonesome. You'd like another look at that red-haired nurse, so you ring for her.

Instead of your nurse, an image of the supervisor of nurses appears on a television screen by your bed. She inquires why you want a nurse. You say the first thing that comes to mind. You don't feel well. You have trouble breathing.

The image on the screen has you hold the microphone on your television set close to your mouth. You inhale and exhale. She listens carefully and decides you don't need your nurse after all.

Nurses are busier these days than 50 years ago, she tells you, because they have taken over more and more of the minor tasks formerly performed by doctors. The doctors spend more of their hospital time in boning up on the latest medical techniques.

Even though you might be only half listening, she tells you about other advances in hospital operation.

Medicines, charts and other objects are conveyed to and from the departments and rooms through pneumatic tubes. Radioactive substances are stored in a protective room on the ground floor. Soap and water have been discarded. Electronic beams sterilize instruments. Fabrics—a kind that will not absorb dirt—are cleaned by supersonic methods.

You sigh. As wonderful as everything is, you still like the old system of having a pretty nurse to talk to whenever you rang for her.

Votes Cast Out

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Improper marking spoiled 15,000 presidential ballots in greater Cleveland, Thomas Terrell, deputy clerk of the Cuyahoga county board of elections estimated yesterday. None of the ruined ballots were counted in the unofficial tally.

Lausche Likely to Give Key State Post to Galion Man

R. Moulton, Former Aid, Candidate

Old Commerce Head Considered

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who came back in last Tuesday's election to vindicate his administration, virtually will have a free hand in carrying out his executive program.

Unofficial election returns show he will have a friendly legislature—something he did not have in his first administration.

The senate and house are Democratic by bare majorities. During his first term both legislative branches were top-heavy Republican.

Always cautious in the selection of men to head the executive departments, Lausche is expected to be doubly cautious in making his selections—even to the possible extent of alienating party organization leaders.

Although Lausche showed an indication to abandon some of his political independence to cooperate with party organizations during the recent campaign, he probably again will assert his independence in selecting men for key posts in his new administration.

Robert L. Moulton, of Galion, former state legislator and director of commerce in Lausche's former administration, probably will be a new key man.

If he is not returned to his old post as commerce director, he likely will be the Governor's choice for liquor director, though personally Moulton probably would prefer the commerce job.

Lausche ran into trouble in the liquor department in the latter part of his first administration when more than 100 illegitimate private clubs were licensed to sell liquor.

These permits were promptly cancelled during the Herbert administration. The state already has collected more than $20,000 from their bondsmen.

The private club permit scandal prompted Lausche to exclaim "I have been betrayed" and he probably will take no chance on being betrayed again.

He has implicit confidence in Moulton, who was one of his closest advisors during the campaign. Moulton has the reputation of being a capable and upright man.

Should Moulton be selected for liquor director, the governor again may re-call James W. Huffman from private law practice to run was commerce director at the outset of the first Lausche administration. He resigned to accept appointment to the U.S. Senate as successor to Harold H. Burton of Cleveland.

Burton was elevated by President Truman to a seat on the U.S. Supreme Court. Moulton then succeeded Huffman as commerce director, serving to the end of the Lausche term.

Allen Slade, Franklin county engineer who did not seek re-election, has been mentioned for the post of highway director in the new Lausche administration, unless he should recall Perry Ford of Columbus. Ford served as highway director during the first Lausche term.

Slade, who is considered one of the best county engineers in the state, was one of Lausche's most ardent boosters in his primary race with former Cleveland Mayor Ray T. Miller.

This irony may be noted with the change from Republican to Democratic state administration. The Republicans increased salaries for all state officials and members of the legislature.

Democrats will reap the harvest.

Alarming Decrease Shown In Ohio's Bee Colonies

There has been an alarming decrease in the number of bee colonies in Ohio said state apiarist, S. E. Bailey of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, today, attributing much of the recent loss of the farmer's important helper—the honeybee to last winter's severe weather when 35 per cent of the colonies were killed. This loss was only partially replaced and the current bee population is 14 per cent below 1947.

Now the most numerous of flower-visiting insects, the honeybee, is absolutely essential to the maintenance of a profitable agricultural industry in our state, asserted Bailey. Aside from its productive output of some 10 million pounds of honey and 175 thousand pounds of beeswax in Ohio each year, the honeybee's important role is the pollination of some of our most important agriculture crops for the production of fruit and seed.

Second only to California in the number of bee colonies maintained, Ohio with its 321,000 bee colonies, can not afford to continue losing this tireless worker friend of the farmer. As a matter of fact, said Bailey, federal agriculture men have stated Ohio needs more bees to help maintain a proper balance in the agricultural cycle.

Cold weather losses plus disease losses have discouraged many beekeepers to forsake the business, so the state agriculture department division of plant industry through its apiary inspectors is conducting an educational and inspection program for the express purpose of keeping the bee population of the state healthy and abundant.

More than 11,000 apiaries were inspected in the first eight months of this year and all infected colonies—some 2½ per cent of the more than 93 thousand colonies inspected—were destroyed. Bailey anticipates a lower disease percentage report at the end of 1948 than was reported at the close of last year when the disease ratio was two in 100 colonies, the lowest in the history of the apiary inspection service.

He believes that inspectors will exceed the record total of inspections made last year when they checked 106,000 colonies. He urges all those entering the business or hobby of beekeeping to make full use of the agriculture department's apiary service.

8 Lutheran Choirs Set For Festival

Shelby Host; Critic Named

SHELBY — Eight Lutheran churches from this area will participate in a Choir Festival at 8:00 o'clock tonight at the First Lutheran church.

Choirs from Upper Sandusky, Plymouth, Nevada, Bucyrus, Galion, Mansfield, Crestline and Shelby will take part in the service.

Professor John Bennett Ham, of Wittenberg School of Music will be present as the critic. He is to write a report of constructive criticism on each choir's work.

The festival will not be a competitive affair but rather a program to develop the appreciation of music and singing in the choirs of these churches.

This is the second of these festivals to be held. Last year the choirs met at the St. Paul's Lutheran church in Bucyrus.

Crawford Farm Bureau Meet Held

Election Marks Annual Affair

BUCYRUS—More than 500 attended the annual meeting of the Crawford County Farm Bureau held last week at Holmes-Liberty school, north of here.

The principal address was given by Bill Long, former organization director of the local group and at present manager of an Ohio Farm Bureau Co-op in Lorain. He pointed out the advantages of belonging to the cooperative movement.

At the annual election of directors and convention delegates held during the business session, new directors elected included: Ardan Smith, Lykens; Henry Steiger, Liberty township; Mrs. John Schifer, Chatfield; Ray Huber, Polk township; Kenneth W. Snyder, Whetsone, and Mrs. Wilford Snyder, Bucyrus.

Delegates to the annual state convention will be Loren Gledhill, Neil Spiegel and Fred Gehret. Alternates include George R. Crall, Irvin Briegel and Wilbur Kalb. It will be held in Columbus Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 1.

The business meeting was presided over by Henry Steiger, co-op president, and business reports were presented by Edon Zeurcher, co-op manager.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Columbian Singers from a Columbus radio station and the evening's program was concluded with folk games and square dances in charge of Lloyd Calhound. Marion county farm bureau organization director.

Bucyrus Lists First Concert

BUCYRUS—First attraction in the Bucyrus Community Concert series will be presented at Bucyrus high school auditorium Thursday night with the appearance of the dePaur Infantry Chorus.

The chorus, which is under the direction of Capt. Leonard dePaur, is composed of 35 Negro veterans of World War II and was started in 1942.

During the war the chorus gave more than 2,000 concerts for American armed forces under the joint direction of the Army and the USO. The chorus visited all theaters of the war.

After the war ended, the chorus was sent to Europe to entertain occupation troops and the men were discharged only last spring. Capt. dePaur has been with the group since 1944.

Other attractions in the 1948-49 Bucyrus concert series includes: Feb. 24, the Teltschiks, duo-pianists; March 10, the Graudans, piano-cellist ensemble, and April 29, John Tyers, baritone.

Toledo Senator Leads Recheck

TOLEDO, O.—(INS)—Raymond E. Hildebrand, present Republican state senator from Toledo, apparently stood re-elected over Democrat Robert C. Ragan.

A recheck of balloting which may determine whether the Democrats or Republicans control the coming state senate gave Hildebrand a 115 vote lead over Ragan yesterday.

Discovery of errors in poll book entries wiped out a 32-vote margin compiled by Ragan according to unofficial election returns tabulated Wednesday following Tuesday's voting.

Capt. Keller will be at the American Legion Home at 8 p. m Wednesday for interviews of applicants and assignment of officers. Organization of the company is expected to be completed in 60 days.

The unit will require two officers and 11 enlisted men to be certified by the federal government. Boys who join the National Guard are exempt from selective service.

The company will take over the Galion Armory which has been leased by the Ohio National Guard to the North Electric Manufacturing company for the last several years.

Rites Arranged For 4th Victim

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Funeral services were arranged in Cleveland for the fourth and final victim of a fatal teen-age joy ride.

Paradise Junito, 16, last survivor of the Sunday night suburban Lyndhurst crash, died Friday night at Huron Road hospital.

Harry Lange, 19, was killed instantly when his car smashed into a six-foot embankment at the end of a dead-end road as he attempted to elude police pursuing him for speeding.

Lange's fiancee, Dorothy Cunningham, 18, died a short while after the accident. Don Buschof, 18, a third passenger in the auto, died Tuesday.

Police of Lyndhurst and suburban Mayfield Heights said Lange's auto was speeding at an 80-mile-an-hour clip with darkened lights when the accident occurred.

Springfield City Manager Quits In Huff

'Double Cross' Talk Heard

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—Oscar L. Fleckner, city manager, resigned Friday night after a stormy session of a citizes'n committee and the city commission.

Fleckner said he resigned under "pressure from certain members of the commission." He said the pressure revolved around certain appointments to city jobs, which he maintained was an administrative matter and not the concern of the city commission.

He said at the meeting that some time ago he told Commissioners Joe Sterling and Norman Saum, in confidence, he was going to resign on orders of his physician. Last night he said Sterling had violated that confidence when he announced the resignation at the joint meeting.

Since the matter had been brought up in a public meeting, Fleckner said, he plans to leave at the first moment he can be released from his duties.

Members of the citizen's committee, which has been assisting the committee on financial matters, defended Fleckner and termed Sterling's action in making the announcement before Fleckner could make it "a double cross."

Fleckner came here in June of 1947. There was no indication from the commission as to whom it would select to succeed him.

Walter White Says—

Americans Fostering Nazi Anti-Semitism

It is something of a shock to return to the United States to find so much hysteria over the notorious Ilse Koch and almost total unawareness of how her case stems inevitably from patterns of thinking right here at home. There is a current ominous transformation of German psychology, of which the recent riots at Stuttgart is a symbol, which is only partly due to the struggle between Russia and the United States for control of Berlin. Vast numbers of Germans are flattered by the belief that they are today a rare prize for which the U. S. and the U. S. S. R. are willing to wage a war to capture.

White

But even more damaging to the cause of America is the affirmation by too many Americans of nazi anti-Semitism. An appalling number of Germans calmly told me that they had no sense of guilt in still believing that Hitler was right in wiping out Jews "because most of your Americans have told us that they agree."

The extent of this bolstering of nazism can best be measured by the amazement when some of us told Germans that we totally and vigorously disagreed with Hitler's anti-Semitism. It was obvious that we were considered very rare specimens.

As a result of this kind of dangerous affirmation of nazi racism, former nazis are emerging with increasing boldness to re-enter public life. One of the ablest officers of the U. S. Army told me that one hears far less frequently than even a few months ago the protestations which were heard during the early days of the occupation that "I was an anti-nazi."

Today one hears in Germany almost arrogant defense of Nazi activities, especially against Jews, on the calm assumption that America will not only agree but will applaud tales of anti-Semitic crimes.

Genuine anti-Nazis are increasingly afraid to testify against Nazis because they fear reprisals, both from the former followers of Hitler and from Americans who share their anti-Semitism.

A brilliant Swiss scholar who is a great admirer of American potential as a moral leader of the world with whom I was discussing this German attitude in Paris remarked sadly, "The most beautiful woman in the world cannot give more than she possesses." "Your country is so rich and powerful," he said, "why can't she live up to the ethical principles she talks about so frequently and so eloquently"

It is against such a background of contradictions that the United States today is an inexplicable and vulnerable an enigma as is Russia. We tell the rest of the world that it must clean house, live up to every tenet of democracy, guarantee human rights to all of its citizens- even as our own failures to do these very things are industriously and incessantly publicized in every section of the world.

Because the eternally fascinating factor of sex (normal and abnormal) is the chief ingredient in the case of the infamous Koch woman, Americans drool and rant over the leniency shown her while they ignore their own prejudices which today provide fertilizer for a million Ilse Kochs and Adolf Hitlers.

TIME RUNS SHORT

Because time to avert diaster is appallingly short, I venture to offer a few suggestions about the Ilse Kochs, female and male, and the unsavory stage on which creatures like them play their roles. While in Germany I read a detailed summary of the testimony against her. I found no evidence which established that any articles made of human skin were ever in her possession or in her house. But I have no doubt that, being the sadistic and perverted nymphomaniac she is, a clear case can be established against her, provided the evidence is more ably and completely presented.

I therefore suggest that President Truman appoint a committee of irreproachable lawyers to examine the evidence and render an opinion as to whether or not her reduction of sentence was justified. If evidence is found which was not presented to the court, a new trial should be ordered and safeguards taken to insure that she does not escape adequate punishment for whatever crimes of which she is guilty as far as jurisdiction of the international court extends. If there is evidence which cannot be considered by the international war crimes tribunal, it should be turned over to the German courts for their use.

Colmol burrows its way into the seam.

MINE MECHANIZATION — A new cutting machine that promises to increase tremendously the output per man-day in coal mines has been demonstrated by the Sunnyhill Coal company at its New Lexington, O., strip mine. Called the Colmol, the squat, 25-foot-long machine burrows into a seam with 10 revolving steel arms that cut the coal and drop it onto a conveyor belt. The belt carries the coal back into waiting trucks or cars. It is estimated that the machine can mine 500 to 1,000 tons a shift in a continuous stream. (International)

Mansfielders Frolic at Dances

PARTIES are synonymous with special holidays and last week end was no exception. Members of Westbrook Country club closed their season with a bonus party and costume dance at the clubhouse Saturday evening. On the same night units of Nu Phi Mu sorority crowned their queen, Miss Jeanette Shafer, at a formal dance at Richland Recreation. Another dance Saturday evening, which was a special celebration, was the informal affair given at the Naval Reserve Training Center, for officers and enlisted men and their wives. This was the first social event held at the newly built naval headquarters.

Two hundred and fifty members and guests frolicked at Westbrook in most unusual costumes. The committee in charge of arrangements amused the group as they appeared as a ballet troupe. These hosts were Elmer and Dolly Hedeen, Marion and Ina Ward and Joe and Gladys Blahnik.

Following the Grand March, which filled the drawing rooms to capacity, the judges, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brandenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nail, selected the prize winners for the best costumes.

Hert Schettler, dressed as a barefoot hill-billy, won the prize for the best dressed man. Young John Hattery was chosen as the funniest man, being dressed as a woman. A real live bunny was Patty Bancroft Gowing, who won the prize as the best dressed woman. As shown in the picture on this page Patty wore a white bunny costume, complete with mop tail and enormous carrot. Dorothy Orr, who is known for her originality, was chosen as the funniest woman, portraying a comic old-fashioned woman.

The prize for the most original couple went to Jack Schettler and his wife, who were in blackface, but Jack was dressed as the woman and Mrs. Schettler as the dapper man. Their witty dialogue and crazy capers throughout the evening kept the crowd in "stitches."

Music for dancing was played by Fred Seckler's orchestra from Canton. At a late hour a buffet luncheon was served.

Completing rush activities of four events of Nu Phi Mu sorority was the formal dance, "The Silver Star Ball," attended by 100 couples at Richland Recreation. Miss Jeanette Shafer was crowned the queen at a special ritual during the evening. Her attendants were Miss Agnes Schmidt, Miss Joan Gerger, Miss Nancy Oblinger, Miss Helen Teger, Miss Jean Schumacher and Mrs. James Sinerson.

The queen was chosen by the number of pledges whom she had named during the fall pledge season. Attendants were chosen by the next large number received through them.

Miss Shafer was crowned with a seed pearl crown by last year's

Amvets Present Minstrel On Dec. 1st and 2nd

By OLIVE GRESMER

Do you remember what enjoyment you received out of an evening of light-hearted entertainment, with pleasing music?

That was the minstrel show put on by the Amvets last winter!

Well, they're doing it again. The boys have been knocking themselves out, working for weeks to perfect their dialogue and music for a super show at John Simpson Junior high school auditorium on Wednesday night, Dec. 1, and Thursday night, Dec. 2.

There'll be new talent, fancy costumes and background, new jokes (that's possible, believe me, I've heard them) and a special second act which recalls the Gay Ninety period. What more can you ask?

Louie Doerr will serve as interlocutor for the show and premiere end men will be those "dandies," Connie Kalbfleisch and Bob Kaiser. Assisting them as end men will be Frank Heitz, Stan Fox, Bob Miller and Jack Lewis.

Specialty numbers will be presented by Richard Turner, baton; Glenn Schroff, tap dance; Jack Lewis, "Mississippi Miss;" Connie Kalbfleisch, "Somebody Else, Not Me;" Ross Todd, "Honey, Dat's All;" Jay Browning, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

A quartet, composed of Dwight Hodgson, Richard Culver, Robert Ernst and Don Kirkpatrick, will give you music you've never heard before.

When the Gay Ninety revue is shown during the second act, there will be a special can-can number which will be a big surprise for everyone.

Music by Victor Herbert will feature the latter part of the program with all local talent featured.

High spot of the entertainment will be the "Two Black Crows," which is a take-off on the well known Moran and Mack, who made the twosome so popular in the '20's.

Maurice Rice, Dale Beer and Frank Strumbo prepare the posters for the annual Amvet minstrel show to be presented here at the John Simpson junior high school auditorium on December 1 and 2.

Mrs. Norman Hakes, chairman of the costumes for the minstrel show, shows Bob Bonham, Amvet commander, how the material will look, with Mrs. Robert Kaser and Mrs. Ernest Yoakam looking on with approval.

Wedding Anniversary Observed By Couple

In honor of their fifteenth wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Horchler, West Fourth street, gave a dinner party to the members of the See and See club and their husbands, Monday evening. The table was beautiful and was laid in the reception room, there being covers for sixteen guests. A tall ivory white basket of white chrysanthemums with a bow of green tulle formed the centerpiece. Place cards, small baskets of confections and almonds, and small bridal slippers, all in green and white marked the guests' places. The ices and other feature of the dinner were also in the prevailing green and white. Following the dinner the guests were bidden to the Majestic, by their hosts and following the program, they went to the Horchler home on West Fourth street, where the evening was spent in dancing and bridge.

Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower was the form of a courtesy given for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard F. Frost, whose marriage took place September 29, last, by Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Yoha, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Frost on the South Main road. Mr. and Mrs. Frost were the recipients of many gifts.

Ever Taken a Factory Trip?

By ANN SCHOENMAN

A factory's not a hard place to figure out. It's just like an amusement park!

They even have cotton candy!

No, your reporter was not having a nightmare when this story was written. These are just a few women's ideas formed about Tappan Stove company when the Philomathean club in Mansfield took a tour of this plant, this last week.

Take an assembly line for instance. If you've ever been through a crazy house, it wouldn't be hard to connect one of these conveyances with a section of moving floor in a fun house that'll take you for a short ride.

A place that attracts a great deal of attention is the "House of Mirrors." The factory's "house of mirrors" is a section of chromium plated steel that reflects wavery images of workers.

The industrial plant even goes so far as having an "octopus." It isn't the kind you ride on, but actually is a spot welder. The welding guns are at the end of long black sections of cables which reach out like the tentacles on the marine animal.

Ever taken a ride on the loop-the-loop? If you have, then you will understand what enamel frit goes through to get mixed. It's put in rotating barrels and turned around and around until it comes out looking like a nice double thick milkshake.

If the object being made has any lights on it, sometime during the trip over the assembly line the lights are all tested. When they are lit, they look like red eyes of dragons that flash on and off in a spook house.

As for the candy cotton, it's really fiber glass insulation. It's fluffy and light, resembling the candy everyone goes for at a circus, carnival or amusement park.

You may expect some of these ideas to come from women, but really they do have a mind for machinery and what is commonly called men's work. Some of the ladies on the tour asked questions which took thought and lengthy explanation from their guides.

MRS. DON PHILIP CARPENTER

Prosser-Carpenter Nuptials Solemnized on Saturday

MISS M. JUNE PROSSER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Prosser, 219 Lexington avenue, became the bride of Don Philip Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Carpenter, Lexington, on Saturday evening in a candlelight service at the First English Lutheran church.

Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell officiated for the formal ceremony solemnized at 7:30 o'clock. The double ring service was used and the custom of open church observed.

Mrs. Clayson Bell presided at the organ and soloists for the program of nuptial music were Albert Young and Mrs. Wanda Donnan.

The candelabra, fastened to the pews of both aisles, and tied with white satin bows, formed a lighted pathway for the bridal party. Seven branch candelabra lighted the altar which was decorated with two beauty baskets of autumn flowers in assorted colors with a background of palms.

Mr. Prosser gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Prosser chose an ivory slipper satin bridal gown, made by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Prosser. The ensemble was fashioned with an imported Chantilly lace yoke, edged with slipper satin bertha collar. The bodice was fitted and the long sleeves came to points over the hands. A full peplum formed a bustle in the back and the full skirt fell into a long flowing train. Her French imported illusion fingertip length veil was held in place by a Dutch crown pearl beaded tiara. Her only jewelry was tiny pearl earrings. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid, later used as a going-away corsage.

Miss Betty Wymond served as maid of honor, wearing a wild rose colonial style frock, made with tight-fitting bodice, high sheer yoke, edged in hand-stitched ruffle and a full skirt over a crinoline bustle. The ruffle at the yoke formed a V in front and back. The sleeves were short and puffed. Completing her ensemble was a French bonnet with open crown, made of ostrich feathers to match the gown.

Miss Sheila Green and Miss Norma Solomon were the bridesmaids, attired in taffeta gowns, of French blue and American Beauty rose, respectively. They were fashioned with a boat-shaped neckline, edged with a deep scallop bertha collar, forming a small sleeve. The tight-fitting bodice was attached to a very full skirt, edged at the hipline with scallop trim. Long scalloped mitts matched their gowns. Their half-hats were made of taffeta, trimmed with baby ostrich tips.

All the attendants carried colonial bouquets of carnations and roses, lace-edged in colors of green, yellow and pink to harmonize with their gowns.

Little Miss Alice Carpenter, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore an aqua taffeta colonial gown, made with tight-fitting bodice with small bertha collar. The skirt was full and draped in three places in front, showing a little lace petticoat. Her colonial style bonnet was in aqua taffeta, trimmer in rose velvet ribbon and baby ostrich tips.

The candles were lighted by Master David Marshman, nephew of the bride. Ring bearer was Master Kenneth Prosser, also a nephew of the bride, who wore a white suit and carried a small satin pillow. The flower girl carried a silver basket of carnations and roses.

Mrs. Prosser wore an original royal blue crepe frock, fashioned with short sleeves and hand beaded in rose, gold and silver. Her accessories were in black and she wore a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Carpenter was attired in a dahlia crepe dinner dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Serving as best man for Mr. Carpenter was Frank Schultz of Berea, a student at Ohio State University.

Escorting the guests to their pews were Ronald Cutter, Dean Eicher and Arthur Willner, all of Mansfield.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 100 guests in the clubroom of the Mansfield Leland hotel. Baskets of assorted fall flowers decorated the room. Hostesses were Mrs. Mildred Perry, Miss Dorotha Garver and Miss Angeline Elmas.

When the couple left for an undisclosed honeymoon trip the bride wore a black beaded gaberdine dressmaker suit with black accessories anda grey fur-trimmed topper. After Nov 16 they will be at home in Lexington.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Mansfield Provident company. Mr. Carpenter is a graduate of Berea high school and attended Wooster college. He is a member of Kappa Kappa Kappa fraternity and is employed as plant manager of the Lexington Soy Products.

Guests were in ttendance from Cleveland, Lorain, Wooster, Barberton, Berea, Loudonville and Elgin, Ill.

Hales, 3571 Lytle road, Shaker Heights, and Mr. Given is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Given sr., former Mansfielders. They are residing at 2688 Deming avenue, Columbus. The Rev. Mrs. B. L. Chase, chairman, conducted the business session. Mrs. Charles George led the group in devotions and closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The members voted to send gifts to the Youngstown home for the aged.

Swug Beghadua from India was the guest speaker for the evening. He told the members the customs and traditions of India.

Tafts Sail For Europe Next Sunday

Ohioan To Check On ERP Work

By FRED ZUSY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Taft's post-election trip to Europe should provide him with lots of ammunition for the coming session of congress.

The trip is billed as a vacation for Taft and his wife. But anyone who knows the Ohioan knows also that he'll spend a lot of time looking into what goes on.

The journey starts next Sunday with a sightseeing tour around Naples, Italy, and ends with 10 days in Paris in December.

In between, the Tafts will visit Germany, Switzerland and Holland. The plans call for the senator to go to Berlin by airlift.

You can count on Taft's getting some pretty good ideas on how the European Recovery program is working out in Italy, France and Germany, major battlegrounds of the cold war.

In senate debate on the ERP bill last March, Taft termed the program "completely without economic justification." He said he favored extending aid only because of the affect this would have in the "battle against communism."

In suggesting a reduction in the overall ERP total, Taft said he favored aid "only to the extent which appears to be absolutely necessary and effective to maintain a reasonable subsistence for the peoples of those countries and enable them to increase their own production of goods."

He also said, "I suppose that the momentum of the plan will necessarily carry it on into the second year at some additional expense."

When the senate faces the question of extending the aid program, Taft will have some first hand information to back up his views. He'll be one of several senators to visit the continent this fall.

Public Roads administration figures show Ohio had a $35,800,000 federal aid highway program underway Sept. 30. Six other states had more construction underway on that date.

They were: Pennsylvania, $74,000,000; California, $59,000,000; Texas, $55,700,000; New York, $49,300,000; Illinois, $45,000,000 and Michigan, $40,800,00.

Ohio farmers took in $656,40.-000 the first eight months of this year, compared to $603,000,000 the first eight months in 1947, an increase of about nine per cent.

The total for the year is expected to exceed last year's record high level.

However, the Agriculture department says that with production expenses still rising, net income for farmers throughout the country is expected to show a decline in 1948 for the first time in 10 years.

The department predicts a further decrease in farmers' net income next year.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer —an Ohioan — poses an interesting problem.

Remember pictures of Atlas, the giant who carries the whole world on his shoulders.

Sawyer related in a recent speech he made how, as a lad, he was fascinated by such pictures.

"I was fascinated," he said, "not by the immense load he was carrying, but by the mystery—what was he standing on? What supported the man who was supporting the world?

He brought this up to illustrate America's position today, supporting "the wrole system of free society."

If we are playing the part of Atlas, he said, "we have nothing whatever to stand on except the strength and solidity of our own economy."

Storm Batters Cincinnati

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Cincinnati and Hamilton county were battered by torrential rains over a 12-hour period Friday, with scores of highways, streets and cellars flooded by water. Rainfall in the period totaled 2.12 inches. Lightning struck the steeple of the Hyde Park community church and firemen said damage would "run into several thousand dollars."

They're Building Their Home Around Them

Young Architects Make Dreams Reality

By MALCOLM HARTLEY

This is the house that Tom and Bernadine built.

Not only did Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zaugg build their attractive home at 1121 Lexington avenue—they also drew the plans, set up the specifications and selected the materials.

Nearly everybody has the ambition, at one time or another, to plan and build a home. Many achieve the ambition, but in most cases they leave the final details to the architects.

In this respect, the Zauggs have an advantage. They are architects—both of them. Both are graduates of Ohio State university, and resided in Columbus until they came to Mansfield two years ago last March.

In planning their unusual home, the Zauggs had several objectives, Mrs. Zaugg explained. One of these was to suit the house to their family needs, and these, naturally, included facilities for their two small children, John and Karen. Other aims were to fit the house to the lot, and to build a solar sturcture which will get maximum coolness in summer and make use of the sun's heat in winter.

TRY OWN IDEAS

And what was perhaps most important of all, said Mrs. Zaugg, she and her husband wanted to try out some of their own ideas of design and use of materials.

An inspection of the house leaves scant doubt that they have achieved this purpose. The home, effi-[illegible] arranged for pleasant living, is full of surprises for an [illegible] accustomed only to routine construction methods.

The house sits on a foundation of single cinder blocks, which the young architects have apparently succeeded in waterproofing.

The exterior stone is native limestone, handpicked by Mr. and Mrs. Zaugg from a quarry near marion. Native chestnut is used for interior trim.

Lighting is supplied by semi-concealed fluorescent tubes located above the windows, supplemented by incandescent lights.

STARTED YEAR AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Zaugg started building their house during the former's vacation a year ago. They had the excavation and grading done with power equipment. Carpenters did the rough framing on the house. Pouring of concrete, installation of mechanical equipment and part of the masonry was done by technicians.

Nearly all of the other work the Zauggs have done themselves—even down to such details as the building of window frames, and construction of furniture.

They moved into the house in February of this year, and have since been completing the interior. Their task is now nearing an end.

Basement of the house contains the garage, space for the heating system, and a room to be used as a workshop. The main floor has three bedrooms, kitchen, bath, living room and a large recreation room. It is here that the Zauggs have set up their tools and equipment to complete their job.

Party Enlists Polish Women

WARSAW — (AP) — Polish women are taking a big role in pushing the propaganda campaigns of the Polish Communist Workers party among this country's 24.-000,000 people.

Figures released by Communist headquarters in Warsaw show women make nearly 20 per cent of the party's entire membership of approximately 1,000,000. A total of 190,717 women are members of the party, commonly referred to as the "PPR", meaning Polish Workers Party.

Like male members, they have to march in parades, attend party rallies and give information to party headquarters of any member showing a "rightist or nationalistic" tendency.

Singer Dies After Taking Medicine

NEW YORK — (AP) — Victoria Schools, 25-year-old singer, was found dead in her East 54th street apartment today shortly after she had swallowed two pills, police reported. Contents of the pills were not disclosed immediately. An autopsy was ordered. The body was found by the singer's mother, Mrs. Almira Schools of Norfolk, Va.

AUSTIN IN HOSPITAL

PARIS — (AP) — U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin was taken to an American hospital Saturday. He is suffering from the effects of a lingering cold.

Erect 100,000 Prefab Homes

The 100,000th prefabricated home produced by the nation's housing manufacturers since the end of World War II was erected somewhere in the United States during September, according to Prefabricated Home Manufacturers' institute.

Harry H. Steidle of Washington, D. C., institute manager, said that the industry during the first nine months of this year shipped more than 25,000 permanent homes. Added to the 75,000 prefabricated homes built during 1946 and 1947, they boost the total number of factory-made houses sold in the post-war period above the 100,000 mark.

Mr. Steidle added that these were permanent-type homes conforming with industry construction standards, issued by the national bureau of standards, Department of Commerce.

Killer Gets Chair

CANTON — (AP) — John Ross Burson, 33, convicted in the slaying of Ellsworth Ruch jr., 24, July 17, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair Feb. 21. Common Pleas Judge George M. Graham sentenced Burson after overruling a motion for a new trial.

Swiss Ready For Influx Of Refugees

Plan Approved By Federal Council

Bern, Switzerland —(AP)—The Swiss government, with one eye on the muddled international situation, is making dicreet preparations to care for a new wave of refugees.

Under a plan approved by the federal council, the federal government would contribute half the cost of caring for refugees, with private welfare organizations paying the rest. There are still 7,000 political refugees in Switzerland as a result of the last war.

The council pointed out that quite a large number of foreigners had entered Switzerland since the war on legitimate errands and found when they wanted to go home that political events had made return inadvisable or impossible.

"The uncertain political situation in the world could bring almost any day a great increase in the number of refugees seeking asylum in Switzerland. "The council said. "There can be no doubt that the Swiss people are ready again to accept refugees as long as the possibilities and the means of assistance of our country permit it."

However, it was found that individual cantons or towns in Switzerland sometimes are reluctant to accept refugees because of the heavy financial burden involved.

"A policy of asylum," the council said, "which can be influenced by financial considerations can lead to no result worthy of our traditions. Ways and means therefore must be found so that the decision over the acceptance of a refugee will not be influenced by financial considerations."

CLUES TO A CLEVER VEIL

"There is nothing quite so flatteringly feminine as a hat with a pretty veil," says Lenesta, a millinery designer whose charming veil treatments are outstanding. For the woman who can't afford the luxury of a Lenesta original, the designer imparts some of her military secrets.

A paper pattern and a full 36 inch width of veiling, all-over lace or net, make a cascade of filmy ruffles to slip over the brim of the simplest little cloche. Make your circular paper pattern 25 inches in diameter. A headsize opening, 7 inches across (for the average 22 inch headsize) is then cut in the center of the circle, a bit closer to one side than the others, so that when the veil is slipped over the crown of the hat, it will fall shorter at the front and longer in back.

It you cannot obtain the wide, imported veiling, Lenesta says that you can still make an attractive circular veil. You will need 2 yards of the straight 9 inch or 12 inch veiling. Run a long thread through it and shirr it up for the top of the hat, securing it in place with a bow, a pompom or a jeweled button.

Anniversary Of Marines Proclaimed

Corps 173 Years Old on Nov. 10

Next Wednesday, the 173rd anniversary of the United States Marine Corps, has been proclaimed by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn as Marine Corps Day in Mansfield.

On Armistice day, a dance sponsored by the Richland Marine Corps League Detachment will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Richland Recreation Center. Tommy Van's orchestra will play. Mayor and Mrs. Vaughn will be guests of honor.

The Marines were born on Nov 10, 1775 when the Continental Congress authorized the raising of two battalions. First successful landing operation was made when the Continental Marines stormed New Providence in the Bahamas and captured a large amount of sorely-needed British supplies.

The Marines played a leading part in the naval campaigns of the Revolutionary War, the most famous being the Bonhomme Richard's fight under Capt. John Paul Jones.

The rest of the history of the Marines reads like a roll of some of the most famous battles in history. Tripoli, Vera Cruz, Montezuma, Chateau - Thierry, Meuse-Argonne, Pearl Harbor, Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa wrote the Marines' fame into history.

At present mustering a force of 86,000 men, the Marines are commanded by Gen. Clifton B. Gates, veteran of the two wars and commander of the famed First Marine Division on Guadalcanal.

Plane Crash Investigated

SELIGMAN, Ariz. — (AP) — A ground party left Saturday for the rugged area 40 miles southwest of this town to investigate the wreckage of a plane and four or five skeletons found Friday by deer hunters on the slopes of 7,000-foot Mount Hope.

Joe Roy, Sr., and his son, Joe Jr., both of Kingman, Ariz., found the wreckage and skeletons.

The Yavapai county sheriff's office at Prescott, Ariz., Saturday morning said four skulls had been found widely scattered in the partially burned wreckage of the plane. Possibility that one of the victims of the crash was a woman was seen in the discovery of a woman's purse and shoes.

The Roys found several cards at the scene bearing the name of a "Lt. Cole," recently discharged from the navy.

They reported to the Mohave county sheriff's office that the plane had evidently been down for several months.

Possibility was seen by both offices at Kingman and Prescott that the plane might have been the one missing since Sept. 2, 1946, on a flight from Los Angeles to St. Louis.

That plane was piloted by Philo B. Pringle, 31, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and carried four passengers.

The passengers were Arthur M Freund 66 returning to his St Louis home on a stretcher after treatment in a Los Angeles hospital for a heart attack, his wife a son, Stephen, and John Coles, a male nurse from Los Angeles.

Opens Class In Adult Art

Action Taken By Fine Arts Guild

Demand for adult instruction in art to members of the Mansfield Fine Arts Guild has necessitated the opening of a class for senior instruction, Thomas Zaugg, Guild president, said yesterday.

The class will be taught by Mrs. Margaret Twitchell Swank and Mrs. Larry Twitchell, two of the Guild's frequent prize-winners and both students of the Cleveland School of Arts.

Classes will start next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. They will be two-hour sessions at the Swank home, 1563 Lexington avenue road. Interested artists may contact Mrs. Swank by calling 5015-7.

In addition to their graduation from the Cleveland School of Art, both Mrs Twitchell and Mrs. Swank won scholarships there and both have exhibited at each of the three annual Guild exhibitions held here. Mrs. Twichell taught art at John Simpson junior high school last year.

There will be a model for the first lesson and costume designs will be drawn, Mrs. Twitchell said.

Applicants For Jobs Off 17 Per Cent

New job applicants dropped 17 per cent here in October as compared with the previous month, reports C W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield Ohio State Employment Service office.

In September 471 persons sought work here while there were only 381 new job-seekers in October.

At the same time the number of jobs open dropped from 612 in September to 467 in October. This may be an indication, Handley said, that Mansfield's industry is now operating at a stable level.

Seeks Action On Divorces

PARIS —(AP)— Russia demanded Saturday that the United Nations formally recognize divorce.

Black-bearded Alexei Pavlov, Soviet delegate to the assembly's social committee, attacked what he called "unequal and improper marriage and divorce laws in the United States. He sought to amend article 14 of a draft declaration of human rights to read:

"Men and women shall enjoy equal rights both during marriage and when divorce."

Latin American and other delegates of predominantly Catholic countries strongly opposed any mention of divorce in the 28-article declaration. The committee's article-by-article debate precedes assembly approval of the declaration, the first "bill of human rights" in world history.

The committee adjourned debate on marriage and divorce until Monday without taking action.

The Soviet delegate loudly attacked what he called "terrible inequality in the United States."

"In the state of Georgia (United States)," he exclaimed, "a wife is not even recognized as a legal person. She is only part of the male—part of the husband's personality.

"The marriage of white persons and Negroes is prevented by law in America. In fact, there are prison sentences of from one to 10 years for such marriages."

Russia, he said, had "always fought for equality of men and women in marriage."

"In this year," the governor said "the productivity of our farms and factories have richly rewarded all our efforts, thereby enabling us to respond to the needs of the war torn world."

Gov. Herbert asked "all of our citizens to again give thanks to God, being mindful also of the desperate plight of the many other peoples of the world."

"I further urge," he said, "that every one give the equivalent of his Thanksgiving dinner to the relief agency of his church, so that through this means hope and courage can be transmitted to those in such desperate straits overseas."

95 Examined At Clinic

Few Men Ask Check For Cancer Symptom

A total of 95 persons sought cancer check-ups in the Mansfield Cancer clinic in October, the clinic's monthly report revealed yesterday.

Of the 95 persons checked, 82 were women and 13 were men.

"It is difficult to understand why male attendance continues to lag at the clinic," declared Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner. "Men are just as susceptible to the dangers of cancer as women."

Nationwide statistics from the American Cancer society reveal that 48 per cent of all cancer deaths occur in men. Of the 13 male patients examined by the clinic during October, one was found to be positive for cancer, while two suspicious cases were found.

The report showed a total of 11 suspicious cancer cases were detected during the month. They were referred to the patients' family physicians for further diagnosis and follow-up treatment.

NO WAITING NOW

The Mansfield Cancer clinic has been in operation for more than a year, and now is functioning smoothly enough to handle a large number of patients. Long waits for examinations are no longer necessary.

Dr. Wain urged more people and especially more men to take advantage of the opportunity to find out if they are free from cancer. He said early detection, diagnosis, and treatment are still the only available safeguards against the disease.

"A thorough examination such as the clinic offers should be taken yearly by all adults," he said. "Those who have been examined a year ago are urged to return for rechecks now."

Clinic sessions are held each Tuesday at 7 p. m. at Mansfield General hospital. Appointments can be made by calling 2291-6 from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., any day except Saturday and Sunday.

Wolverine Team Gets 21st Win

By FRANK KENESSON

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP)—Michigan's prize sophomore, tall Chuck Ortmann, passed and ran the Wolverines to their 21st straight football triumph yesterday, an easy 35-0 win over undermanned Navy, which now has lost 12 games in a row.

Ortmann who stepped into the shoes of the graduated all-American Bob Chappuis, staged one of his finest performances before the third straight sellout throng of 85,938 fans in Michigan stadium. He connected on one 48-yard touchdown pass to Michigan's brilliant End Dick Rifenburg, plunged across for another Wolverine score and stood out as the best running back on the field.

BLANKED FIRST TIME

Navy, blanked for the first time in seven games this year, couldn't mobilize anything in the way of a sustained attack. The Middies made only eight first downs to Michigan's 22 and never penetrated any deeper than the Michigan 38-yard line.

Michigan, using a total of 43 players, scored in every period after parading 47 yards for a touchdown the first time they got the ball.

Ortmann smashed over for that one and Fullback Tom Peterson sliced 10 yards off tackle for a second period score, capping a 78-yard parade. Michigan scored twice in the third, on a one-yard buck by Halfback Walt Teninga and on an 18-yard pass from former Navy Back Bob Van Summern to Rifenburg.

SEVENTH IN SEVEN

Rifenburg then caught Ortmann's arching 48-yard pitch early in the fourth period for his seventh touchdown in seven games.

Harry Allis, Michigan's steady place-kicker, converted all five extra points to run his season record to 22 conversions in 25 attempts.

Michigan smashed for 231 yards on the ground and 115 more by air in its most decisive victory since the Wolverines smothered Purdue 40 to 0 in their Big Nine opener.

Ortmann personnally accounted for 132 yards of Michigan's gains, 90 of it on four pass completions in 12 efforts. He gained 83 yards running but was thrown for 41 yards in losses fading to pass and finished with a rushing net of 42 yards.

Score by periods:

Michigan	7	7	14	7	35

Touchdowns—Ortmann. Peterson, Teninga, Rifenburg 2. Points after touchdown, Allis 5 (placements).

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Barons, defending champions of the American Hockey league, slipped into the basement of the circuit's western division last night when they were edged 3 to 2 by Indianapolis' Capitals.

About Grid Fete 'Gold,' Notes Off The Sports Front

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

THAR'S GOLD IN THEM there hills for men of football at Senior and Madison high schools. . . . Well, at least, there'll be plenty of it floating around at the 13th annual News-Journal football banquet honoring the two schools. . . . Some 30 players on the two teams will come in for a share of the spoils Nov. 29 at Richland Recreation. . . . First off, Sam Fox, local jeweler, will make his annual contribution. . . . Sam will give gold footballs to the graduating lettermen on each of the teams. . . . Then the News-Journal will come through with a pair of huge trophies to the "Most Valuable Player" on each team. . . . These will be picked by the players and managers at both schools. . . . Completing the award list will be the "Best Linemen" trophy to a forward-wall performer on each squad. . . . The fans will pick these winners of trophies awarded by the Alpha Alpha Iota chapter of Phi Sigma Chi fraternity. . . . Voting for the Madison lineman has been concluded. . . . The grand-stand quarterbacks have one more chance to boost their favorite Tyger guy up front. . . . Previous winners of N-J trophies have been Jack Cleckner, tackle and Dick Ernsberger, back, at Madison and Ralph Majors, back and All-America Dick Logan, tackle, at Senior high.

FROM DEFENSE to offense . . . That's the grid story of Ed Thomas, the former Madison end . . . Thomas was a defensive standout for the Rams . . . But this year he's strictly an offensive performer on the Ohio Wesleyan freshman team . . . Now weighing 170, Ed made OWU's only TD as his club lost to the Ohio U. yearlings, 24 to 7 . . . Ed took a 21-yard pass on the seven and lugged it across . . . Wesleyan led at the half, 7 to 6 . . . Comes a letter from Dave Marks, former Senior high basketball and baseball player . . . Dave is playing fraternity football at Wittenberg and awaiting the opening of cage drills . . . He asks if Senior high will be playing an alumni court game this year . . . So he asked Coach Vern Hoffman . . . The balding cage mentor says, "Nothing has been planned regarding a varsity game with an alumni team." . . . The cage season opens Dec. 3.

HOW TOUGH is Notre Dame's football team. . . . A former Mansfielder could give a pretty good answer. . . . Ross Frisbee, Senior high's fine 1946 blocking back, played guard yesterday as Indiana bowed to the Irish, 42 to 6. . . . Eight high school games in the Dayton area were washed out by Friday's all-day rain. . . . the rain-fall totaled 1.4 inches. . . . Georgia Tech's loss to Tennessee was its first at home in 18 games. . . . Only Hughie Jennings of 11 previous Detroit managers held the Tiger reigns longer than Steve O'Neill who was released yesterday. . . . Hughie had the club 14 years from 1907 to 1920. . . . Ty Cobb and O'Neill each lasted six seasons. . . . Cobb replaced Jennings. . . . Ohio State's margin over Pitt yesterday was the greatest in the series which started in 1929. . . . Paul Brown's 1942 national champs had marked up a 40-point margin, winning 59 to 19. . . . State has won nine, lost three and tied one in the series. . . . The Bucks, knocked off the Panthers by one more point than Notre Dame could achieve in its 40-to-0 win over Pitt. . . . Mark Navy down as playing the roughest schedule. . . . The Middies have run up against California, Cornell, Duke, Missouri, Penn, Notre Dame and Michigan. . . . Only Missouri of that group had lost a game before playing Navy. . . . Still remaining are Columbia and Army. . . . That's gridiron suicide.

Tennessee Upsets Favored Georgia Tech Team, 13 to 6

ATLANTA —(AP)— The Tennessee Vols tumbled Georgia Tech from the unbeaten ranks yesterday 13-6, as the Vols' big, fast skirmish line continually operated in the Tech backfield.

A sellout crowd of 38,000 fans at a muddy Grant Field saw Tennessee linemen outhit Tech's and destroy Yellow Jacket passing aim. The light, high-speed Tech backs were forced to run instead of pass. Their fumbles set up one Tennessee score and ended several threats.

The loss was a major upset, Tech being a two-touchdown pick before the Southeastern conference game. Although the sun was out during the game, last night's downpours made footing it a dangerous way to advance the ball.

NONE UNBEATEN

Tech's loss and North Carolina's 7-7 tie by William and Mary closed out the list of southern unbeaten, untied teams.

Twice-beaten Tennessee was outgained on the ground 160 yards to 42 but managed to stop all except one Tech drive before it became a big threat. Tech made 18 first downs to the Vols' four but few of them were put into a string.

The only score of the first half came on the fourth play of the game. Tech's Fullback Frank Ziegler, usually a sure man under a punt, fumbled Tennessee's kickoff on his three yard line but recovered.

Two running plays gained six yards. On the next Snap Ziegler again fumbled and the wet ball squirted over the Yellow Jacket's goal. Vol Fullback Tommy Slack recovered for Tennessee's touchdown.

On the try for the extra point practically the entire Tech line smothered Jim Powell. A bad snap from center gave Tech linemen time to get through.

PERFECT PASS

The second half began very much as the first. Within two minutes Littleford tossed a perfect running pass to Halfback Bob Lund. Lund took the ball over his shoulder, feinted twice and, with the help of a block by Alan Fielder, he went 47 yards for the touchdown.

Powell kicked the extra point to give the Vols a 13-0 lead.

Tech immediately came back with a powerful 80-yard drive in which the Jackets rolled up half their yardage. The Tech touchdown was scored on the second play of the final period when Halfback Dinky Bowen bucked over from the one yard line. Bobby North's kick was blocked by a mass of Tennesseeans.

Tennessee	6	0	7	0	13
Georgia Tech	0	0	0	6	6

Tennessee scoring: touchdowns, Slack, Lund. Points after, Powell. (placements). Georgia Tech scoring: touchdown—Bowen.

Denison's Big Red Rolls to 17th Straight

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Denison's Big Red gridders smashed to their 17th straight victory yesterday by defeating Wittenberg college 32-14 before a home-coming crowd of 8,000.

Bob Boyer led the Denison attack with three touchdowns. Wittenberg's punting game, headed by Jim Walsh, Tiger center, slowed the Big Red offense in the first half.

Time ran out on the Lutherans when they intercepted a Denison pass deep in the Big Red territory in the closing second of the first half.

Denison backs broke loose in the second half to score three touchdowns to Wittenberg's one. The visitors had scored early in the first quarter on an Ed Rupp pass to Bob Shannon for a 42-yard touchdown. Bob Boyer scored in the second, third and fourth periods. Rupp intercepted a Wittenberg pass in the fourth period and raced 22 yards for a touchdown.

Wittenberg scored on plunges by Dick Brown in the first period and Jim Cheatham in the final quarter.

Penn State Keeps Record Clean By Surprising Penn

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Two perfect plays from which Fullback Francis Rogel spun touchdowns from 44 and 13 yards out enabled rugged Penn State to subdue Penn's Quakers, 13 to 0, before an overflow throng of 80,000 yesterday.

The defeat at the hands of their traditional rivals knocked the Quakers abruptly from the ranks of the nation's undefeated teams and boosted State's bowl stock out of sight. It was the sixteenth straight game over the past two seasons in which the Nittany Lions have escaped defeat.

ARMY IS NEXT

Penn, which meets Army in the East's big game next week, gained only 28 yards by rushing through State's great defense, and threatened only once to score on the wings of its passing attack in the third period.

Rogel, the offensive star of the game, whirled off his left tackle, found a clear opening through the Penn secondary and whisked 44 yards for the first score in the second quarter, capping a State drive which ate up a total of 88 yards in eight plays.

In the final period, the versatile State machine took to the air, and with Elwood Petchel hitting his receivers with deadly accuracy, shot to another touchdown in two plays.

On the first one, Petchel zipped a short pass to Sam Tamburo, and Tamburo raced 52 yards to the 13. Petchel then pegged one far into the end zone, and Rogel gathered the ball in as he fell sprawling.

Illini Explode For Win Over Iowa, 14 to 9

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (AP) — Illinois exploded for two second period touchdowns on Murney Lazier's 56-yard punt return and a 46- yard payoff drive to whip Iowa, 41-9, yesterday. A 41,502 dads' day throng watched the Big Nine football scrap.

The fightin' Illini faded somewhat in the second half, but the Hawkeyes were unable to penetrate further than 12 yards from the Illinois goal.

With due credit to Lazier and fullback Russ Steger, who rammed over from the 1-yard line for the second score, Illinois had splendid help from the passing of quarterback Bennie Krueger and the punting of Dike Eddleman.

COMPLETES SIX

Krueger completed six of 11 passes for 120 yards. His tossing set up the second Illini touchdown. Eddleman took the starch out of the game Hawkeyes, with quick-kicks of 88 and 75 yards.

Lazier's scoring run was beautiful. He grabbed Glenn Drahn's punt on the Illinois 44, sprinted straight down the field close to the sidelines and was in the clear at Iowa's 40.

The Hawkeyes, in the third period, marched 62 yards to the Illinois 13 where Al DiMarcio failed on three straight passes. At the outset of the fourth period, Iowa reached the Illini 12, but again bogged down.

Carolina Team Held To Tie

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. —(AP)— William and Mary's one team played mighty North Carolina's offensive and defensive combinations to a standstill to spoil the Tar Heels perfect record with a 7-7 tie yesterday.

While a near-capacity crowd of 43,000 sat silent in amazement, the Indians from Virginia grabbed the lead with a second-quarter touchdown, then fought grimly on defense to hold off North Carolina's superior strnegth and gain a tie. North Carolina squared the count in the third period but couldn't offer another real threat.

Get TD'S In Second And Third

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio State's alert Bucks converted a blocked punt, two pass interceptions and a fumble into quick touchdowns yesterday as they rolled up a 41-0 victory over Pittsburgh's toothless Panthers before 68,966 fans.

All the scoring was concentrated in the second and third periods. The Bucks, with a strong wind at their backs, rolled to three touchdowns in each session,

It was peculiar contest, for in the two periods in which Ohio scored its six touchdowns, the Bucks had only four first downs.

Eleven first downs racked up going into the wind failed to produce a point, although the Bucks had the ball on the one-inch line as the game ended.

HAD WON FOUR

The Panthers, who had won four in a row after dropping the first two games, were stopped twice deep in Ohio territory in the first period. They surrendered the ball on downs on the 17 and 21 yard lines.

Pitt halted two Buck surges in the same session, once on the 39 as Walt Cummins intercepted a pass by Pandel Savic, and on the 26 as George Steingraber recovered a fumble by Jerry Krall.

Ohio marched 37 yards in seven plays for its first marker, Krall going around end for 24 yards before Fullback Joe Whisler plunged a yard for the first of his two scores.

Two minutes later Dick Slager hit End Tom Watson with a 50-yard pass to the Pitt seven and in two plays Krall was over from the two.

BOOTS FIVE OF SIX

End Jimmy Hague, who booted five of six extra points, blocked Bill Hardisty's punt on the Pitt 24 to set up the third score. Slager lost 17 on an attempted pass, but tossed 27 to Whisler on the next play, and Savic passed nine to Alex Verdova for the payoff.

At the start of the second half, Halfback Jimmy Clark ran a punt back 84 yards. The play was nullified by a penalty but fine punts locked Pittsburgh deep in its own territory.

Fred Morrison booted out on the Pitt one-yard line and repeated to the five, the latter setting up an Ohio score as Jerry Manz intercepted Cecconi's pass on the nine. Whisler went in for the score over tackle.

After the kickoff Sonny Gandee intercepted Bob Lee's pass on the Panther 24 and ran it back for the fifth marker.

FINAL COUNTER

The final touchdown came with only a second to play in the third period. Charley Renner fell on Cecconi's fumble on the Panther 21, and George Wertz passed to Hague in the end zone for the six-pointer.

Jerry Krall, running the ends on pitch-out plays, romped 72 yards in 13 plays to lead the Bucks, while Whisler got 63 in the same number of line plunges. Savic completed four of five passes for 35 yards and one touchdown.

Steve O'Neill Fired By Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)— Steve O'Neill, who gave Detroit one world championship and three American league runner-up clubs in his six-year stay here, was fired yesterday as manager of the Tigers.

He was the seventh major league pilot to lose his job this year.

One of the other six, Stanley (Bucky) Harris, deposed New York Yankees' manager, has been rumored as a likely successor to O'Neill. Other possibilities include Paul Richards, former Tiger catcher, who now manages Buffalo in the International league, and Roger (Doc) Cramer, Detroit coach.

An announcement from Detroit General Manager Billy Evans said no successor has been chosen. It said O'Neill's contract is not being renewed for 1949 because of a belief "that a change in field management would be desirable."

Evans' statement said the Detroit management "is keenly appreciative" of O'Neill's six years of "loyal and conscientious service."

O'Neill received the news with hurt surprise at his home in Cleveland, declaring he had "not heard in any way, shape or form" of the Detroit club's action.

Last season was O'Neill's 18th as a manager and his ninth in the American league. Of his 17 years as a player he spent 13 as catcher for the Cleveland Indians.

O'Neill's first big league managerial job was at Cleveland, where he took over from Walter Johnson in 1935. After three years there he went to Buffalo for a three-year stay as pilot. Then he came to Detroit as a coach under Del Baker for a year.

He led Beaumont to a league pennant in 1942 with such present Detroit players as Dick Wakefield, Hoot Evers and Pat Mullin.

Mighty Army Smashes Stanford

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK — (AP) — Army decisively scored its seventh straight victory of the season yesterday by overpowering Stanford, 43 to 0, in Yankee Stadium, before 46,695.

It was the first time in three meetings that Army has defeated Stanford, and the highest score any opponent has run up this year on the Big Reds, rated only 20 points behind the Cadets on the strength of walloping Washington, 20-0, and barely losing to Southern California, 7-6. Stanford's previous worst defeat was 27-14 by Santa Clara.

Army had too many fast backs for the faltering Stanford line—Gil Stephenson, Arnold Galiffa, Harold Shultz, Bobby Jack Stuart and Rudy Cosentino all making spectacular dashes.

Stanford once reached the Army five only to fold.

Cosentino's 78-yard touchdown run in the last period was the longest gain of the game, but Galiffa — whose passing was sharp all day — scored on a 41-yard dash, Stuart ripped off 60 yards to tally, and Shultz had a 56-yard run to his credit. Stephenson scored once on a plunge, and set up the touchdown with a 48-yard gain on a shovel pass from Galiffa.

The game, considered the big city substitute for the once dynamic Notre Dame-Army series, was marked by loud booing whenever Coach Red Blaik of Army changed his complete team, as is his system on offense and defense.

The smashing victory materially enhanced the prestige of the mighty Army team. Stanford, although it had won only three games against four defeats, was considered one of the better coast elevens.

Score by periods:

Army	7	16	6	14	43

Army scoring: Touchdowns—Stephenson. Stuart 2 Galiffa, Shultz, Cosentino. Points after touchdown—Yeoman 5 (place-kicks); safety—Army.

Irish Fail To Score In Final Heat

By DALE BURGESS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (AP)— Notre Dame's football team skipped lightly over a muddy field in a 42-6 victory yesterday against Indiana university's five-times beaten Hoosiers.

The Irish failed to score only in the final quarter—thus ending a string of 38 periods in which they had tallied one or more touchdowns.

Halfback Emil (Six Yard) Sitko softened up the Hoosiers with a series of smashes early in the game. He ran 23 yards for the first Irish touchdown and it was just routine after that.

Five Notre Dame backs crossed the Indiana goal line and Steve Oracko place-kicked six straight points after touchdown. Bill Gay and Bill Wightkin scored their first points of the season for the Irish. John Landry got two touchdowns and John Panelli contributed one.

PITCHES FOR TWO

Quarterback Frank Tripucka had a good day for Notre Dame, passing for two touchdowns and handling the ball flawlessly on pitchouts.

Indiana mostly watched the score pile up until late in the final period. Halfback Del Russell figured in eight straight plays that moved the ball 40 yards for the lone Hoosier touchdown. End Joe Bartkiewicz took a seven-yard pass for the climax.

Notre Dame made 291 yards on the ground and 145 by passing. Indiana's rushing gained only 44 yards net and its offense covered 92 yards by air. Tripucka missed with only two of nine passes.

The Irish scoring sequence was Sitko, 23-yard run; Landry two-yard plunge; Panelli, 51-yard run down the side line; Tripucka's pass to Wightkin for 45 yards; Tripucka's pass to Gay for 20 yards; Landry, a one-yard plunge.

It was Notre Dame's 25th game without defeat and its 19th straight victory. The sellout crowd of 34,000 was the 23rd straight capacity audience for the Irish.

Notre Dame	14	21	7	0	—42
Indiana	0	0	0	6	— 6

Notre Dame scoring: touchdowns, Sitko, Landry 2, Panelli, Wightkin, Gay. Points after touchdown: Oracko 6.

Wildcats Still Smelling That Rose Bowl Invitation

By ARTHUR BYSTROM

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— Northwestern kept its Rose Bowl hopes alive by beating Wisconsin 16 to 7 yesterday but looked like anything but a top-flight club in doing it. A capacity crowd of 45,000 saw the game.

The Wildcats won by a safety in the opening quarter and by scoring two touchdowns in the third period. They got into position for the first touchdown after an exchange of punts and a good runback by Loren Day to the Badger 27. From that point halfback Frank Aschenbrenner cut over right tackle for the tally. The second score came after a Wisconsin fumble on the 17. Aschenbrenner went over from the one. Jim Farrar added both extra points with placements.

Northwestern threatened often throughout the first half but was a victim of its own miscues. The Wildcats fumbled on four occasions deep in Wisconsin territory in those periods and added another bobble in the closing half. All were recovered by Wisconsin.

MUCH IN TROUBLE

The Badgers, except for a good drive in the late stages when they put together six first downs to go 85 yards, were in trouble frequently. They failed to score after their fine march but recovered a Wildcat fumble a few minutes later on the Northwestern 15 and from that point went on to a touchdown, with Wally Dreyer scoring. Lisle Blackbourn kicked the extra point.

A blocked punt by Ray Wietcha, Wildcat center, that was recovered in the end zone by Wisconsin punter T. A. Cox gave Northwestern two points in the opening period.

It was the fifth straight defeat for Wisconsin, which has dropped four out of five conference tilts. Northwestern has bagged four of five league games and trails only unbeaten Michigan.

Wisconsin	0	0	0	7	— 7

Northwestern scoring: touchdowns Aschenbrenner 2. Points after touchdowns, Barrar 2, (placements). Safety, Cox (Wisconsin).

Passing Duel Listed Sunday In Cleveland

CLEVELAND — Another of those customary passing duels is on tap here today when the Baltimore Colts meet the Cleveland Browns in an All-America conference game.

The teams have broken even this year, although the Browns are favored to win their ninth straight. The Colts took the Brownies in an exhibition tilt but lost a regular season encounter.

With Otto Graham tossing, the Browns have averaged 195 yards in the air. The Colts have 207 behind the throwing of Y. A. Tittle, a rookie quarterback. Mac Speedie has caught 42 for 573 yards for Cleveland while Billy Hillenbrand of the Colts has flagged 31 for 686 yards and five TD's. End Lamar Davis, Caltimore, has 20 catches for 422 yards.

Missouri Halted By Oklahoma Grid Aggregation, 41-7

NORMAN, Okla.—(AP)—Slippery Jack Mitchell and a brutal Oklahoma line powered the Sooners to a 41-7 victory over a bewildered Missouri football team before a record homecoming crowd estimated at 38,500 here yesterday.

Showing their sharpest attack of the season before the largest gathering ever assembled for a football game in Oklahoma the Sooners turned the game into a rout by scoring four touchdowns in eleven minutes and ten seconds of the third quarter.

The victory was Oklahoma's third in the big seven conference against no defeats, and their sixth successive triumph.

It was a great battle for two full quarters as Missouri opened the scoring with Dick Braznell smacking over from the one-foot line midway of the opening period Bob Dawson kicked the point.

Oklahoma evened the game in the first four minutes of the second quarter on George Thomas four-yard slice through tackle and a perfect placement by Les Ming.

Phalanx Wins First of Year

NEW YORK — (AP) — Phalanx, the 1947 three-year-old champion, got his nose across the finish line for the first time this season yesterday as he captured the gruelling two-mile and one-sixteenth Daingerfield handicap at Jamaica race track.

Carrying topweight of 129 pounds, Phalanx swept into command in the final sixteenth of a mile and shot across the finish line three-quarters of a length in front of King Ranch's Flying Missel. The latter which had led all the way twice around Jamaica's egg-shaped course, was five lengths ahead of Donor.

Phalanx covered the distance in 3.35 4-5. The Daingerfield was worth $20,300 to Phalanx's owner, and shot the four-year-old colt's total earnings to $392,035.

College Football Games In Capsule Form

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK — (AP) — College football's poor relation rose up and smote the sport's top ten yesterday although Notre Dame, Michigan, Army and California came through as expected.

But Georgia Tech, Pennsylvania and Missouri were trounced and North Carolina, Dixie's pride and joy, was tied by William and Mary —a team which lost to tiny St. Bonaventure just two weeks ago.

Notre Dame slapped down Indiana, 42 to 6, on the muddy Hoosier field for its 25th game in a row without defeat.

Army's horde of speedy backs and its two platoon system wrecked Standford, 43 to 0, in the Yankee stadium substitute for the cancelled Army-Notre Dame of other years.

PERSONAL MATTER

Michigan's Chuck Ortmann made his team's 35 to 0 victory over Navy a personal matter by passing for one touchdown and plunging for another.

California counted in every period and 65,000 cheered the antics of Jackie Jensen as the Bears strengthened their Rose Bowl bid with 28 to 13 verdict over UCLA.

By what happened to some of the others in the elite ten?

Penn saw a winning streak that stretched over two seasons topped by Penn State, 13 to 0.

Missouri collapsed entirely and Oklahoma counted four touchdowns in 11 minutes that insured a 41-to-7 victory and all but brought the Sooners the Big Seven crown and a Jan. 1 bowl bid.

Tennessee's smart and rugged linemen pushed Georgia Tech in to the ranks of the beaten, 13 to 6.

SILENT AMAZEMENT

Some 43,000 fans sat in silent amazement as William and Mary tied North Carolina, 7 to 7. The Virginia Indians made only one first down, and that on a penalty, but they capitalized on a recovered fumble to dislodge the Tar Heels.

Other games lifted Georgia to the top spot in the Southeast conference; spilled Baylor from the top seat in the Southwest loop; made Northwestern the top ranking choice as the Midwest's Rose Bowl bid and saw Princeton humble Harvard, 47 to 7, in the opening of the venerable Big Three competition.

Georgia belabored Florida, 20 to 12, to move up in its loop. Baylor yielded two late touchdowns that meant a 13 to 10 setback by Texas. Northwestern trimmed Wisconsin, 16 to 7, to move out in front of the Rose Bowl candidates.

It took all of the Doak Walker's ability to spur his Southern Methodist mates to a 20 to 14 victory over Texas A&M, who now have lost 10 straight. Walker guided the Mustangs 95 yards for the deciding touchdown in the last half. In another Southwest conference surprise, Rice knocked off Arkansas, 25 to 6.

STILL GOES DOWN

Purdue continued downward skid in the Big Nine by bowing this time to Minnesota, 34 to 7, and Iowa sneaked out of any possible Rose Bowl contention by dropping a 14 to 0 contest to Illinois. Ohio State converted a blocked punt, a fumble and two past interceptions into a 41 to 0 verdict over Pittsburgh.

On the west coast Oregon had to hustle to keep its record clear and stay on a par with California in the conference race. Oregon nicked Washington, 13 to 7. Oregon State and Washington State each got a final period touchdown to end all even, 26 to 26.

Nebraska polished off hapless Kansas State, 32 to 0, and Iowa State edged out Drake, 2 to 0.

Columbia did an about-face but lost to Dartmouth, 26 to 21. The Lions got touchdowns in the fourth quarter in contrast to their usual wilting act in the last minutes. One of Columbia's markers was on a 103 yard kickoff return by Lou Kusserow.

COACH NOT HOME

Cornell eked out a muddy, 14 to 6 victory over Colgate and Yale mastered Kings Point, 52 to 0, while coach Herman Hickman spent the afternoon scouting Princeton and Harvard.

Clemson walloped Furman, 41 to 0, to remain the South's only unbeaten, untied power and Wake Forest registered its second triumph in 21 years of trying over Duke, 27 to 20.

Tulane wore down Virginia Military, 28 to 7; Mississippi Southern bowed to Alabama, 27 to 0; and Vanderbilt crushed Louisiana State, 48 to 7.

PERRYSVILLE — Perrysville's six-man football team closed its 1948 season Saturday with an impressive 64-8 victory over Gambier.

California Golden Bears Win Eighth Decision, 28-13

By RUSS NEWLAND

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — California's Bears roared through another lap toward an undefeated football season and possibly the Rose Bowl yesterday with a 28-13 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Golden Bears' eighth triumph in a row unfolded before a crowd of 65,000. The Bears, combining ground power, a few timely passes and breaks, scored in every period.

California scored first with an 80-yard TD march. Right Halfback Jack Swaner went over from the one yard line. Reserve Fullback Will Lotter snagged a pass thrown by the Bruin quarterback, Ray Nagel, late in the second period and ran 85 yards for the Bears' second score.

A 69-yard thrust in the third period saw Swaner go through right tackle for another touchdown. He had previously ripped off 29 yards around left end to place the ball four yards from the goal.

As the fourth period started, UCLA Quarterback Bill Stamper tossed one good for 38 yards to Right End Dave Dobrow. Fullback Haly Braly, climaxing a 66-yard drive, punched over from the one yard line.

California came back to capitalize on a blocked punt. The Bruins, backed up to their one yard line on a penalty, attempted a quick kick. It was blocked. California Left Tackle Jim Cullom fell on the ball in the end zone. He also placekicked all of California's extra points.

Paul Devine went over from the two-yard line, and Charles Slemmer kicked the point that proved the Student Prince's margin.

In the final period Wooster drove 50 yards to score, with Jim Kennedy passing for important gains during that drive and heaving the touchdown pass to Bob Twitchell in the end zone in a play that started on Heidelberg's two.

Wooster lost another fourth period scoring chance when Price Daw fumbled on the Heidelberg five after a pass-play gain of 64 yards. Heidelberg recovered.
